TWO GERMAN ARMIES DEFEND CAEN

JAPS CAPTURE U. S. AIR PORT AT HENGYANG

Chung Wins Some Recompense for Buffeting Taken on Saipan Island.

By The Associated Press

Japanese troops hammering at Hengyang have captured the U. S. air force base there, thus reaping part of the first major fruits of their drive to slice China in two, it was partial recompense for the progressing American conquest of Saipan in the Pacific.

Chungking, conceding abandonment of the advance field, reported the vital Chinese city had burst into flames under the pressure of the greatest Japanese China offensive since 1938.

Loss of the base was a hard blow to the allies, and Maj. Gen. Claire Chennault's fliers quickly retaliated, dropping 1,000-pound bombs and knocking out one runway.

Hengyang, key point on the Hankow-Canton railway, is surrounded. Its loss would greatly advance Japan's presumed aim of bisecting the country along the rail line and blocking the allies out of coastal China.

14th Air Force In Battle

Chennault's 14th air force threw all its weight into the Hengyang battle, but Chungking previously acknowledged the Chinese ground defenders were in a critical position.

Twenty thousand Japanese battled with fury to stem American forces slowly wedging them into the northern neck of Saipan island.

Marines and infantrymen advancing up both coasts of Saipan got strong support from U. S. naval and air forces which struck at the Kuriles north of Japan, at the Marianas and the Carolines. Among the specific targets were Guam, Rota, Paramushiro, Shumushu, Tinian and Truk. Enemy air attacks against American warships and transports utterly failed Adm. Nimitz announced in outlining the western Pacific situation through June 26.

The foot soldiers inched into Garapan, Saipan's capital, blasting out the defenders street by street. They moved two miles up the east coast through two villages. Japanese trying to break out of Nafutan peninsula were mowed down, 200 dying in the futile effort.

Saipan Battle Tough

Admittedly the Saipan fighting was as rough as anything yet encountered in the Pacific.

A second trap was closing on thousands of Nip troops falling back on Wewak, New Guinea coastal base. Australians advanced 20 miles in 28 days from the southeast and another allied force pushed down from Altape from the north. The gap between the forces is 150 miles.

Gen. MacArthur's airmen bombed and strafed from the Indies to the Solomons, hitting Timor, Selaman, Babo, Manokwari, Wewak, Sorong, Yap, Woleai, Rabaul and Bougainville.

Chinese advanced six miles from captured Mogaung toward Myitkyina, besieged north Burma city, where other Chinese bowled over another enemy strongpoint. Chinese troops also forged to within three miles of Tengchung, Japanese base in southwestern China.

All Japanese west of the Kohima-Imphal road in India have been eliminated, southeast Asia headquarters announced, and the mopping up east of the highway continues.

MARION SOLDIER IS WOUNDED IN FRANCE

Mother of Sgt. Gerald Miller Receives Notice.

Word has been received here that Sgt. Gerald Miller, a Marion man, was wounded in action in France during early fighting in the north of that country. The message came to his mother, Mrs. Bessie Arnold of 180 Bain avenue, this week by telegram from the War Department in Washington, D. C. It was stated details would be sent later.

Sgt. Miller, a member of the Army Air Force Glider infantry has taken part in four campaigns, having been in North Africa, Sicily, Italy and France. He is believed to be among the first men to enter France on D-day under the leadership of General Bradley.

Before entering service he was employed at Hotel Harding.

Dewey Meets Reporters At Biggest Conference

Nominee Declares He Will Confer with Republican Leaders, Including Willkie, in Mapping Plans.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, June 29—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey told what he called the "world's biggest press conference" today that he hopes to confer with all the nation's Republican leaders, including Wendell L. Willkie, on presidential campaign plans.

Declining to discuss cabinet possibilities—if he wins the White House—the smiling G.O.P. nominee gave speedy endorsement to many planks of the party's platform, including those on foreign policy, the president's fair employment practices committee, and others.

Wearing a light grey suit, Dewey appeared fresh and rested at his press conference, despite the physical strain of shaking thousands of hands at a public reception lasting past midnight last night.

Dewey was asked specifically if he "welcomes the editorial support of the Chicago Tribune," which once criticized his views on foreign policy. There was a laugh from the reporters.

Smilingly, Dewey replied: "I don't know that I have the editorial support of the Tribune. I shall welcome the support of every good American in the whole United States."

The nominee sat on a table and puffed a cigaret-in-holder, much after the Franklin D. Roosevelt fashion, while the reporters asked their quesuons.

One query was how he planned to reach the service men with campaign appeals. Dewey replied that had not yet been determined.

Asked About Plane

"You don't have an airplane all fitted out, do you?" one of the newsmen asked, obviously alluding to the outfitting of a plane which President Roosevelt might use, although the White House has said it was not done for that specific purpose.

"No," Dewey grinned, but I came out here yesterday in a very good one."

Once during the conference, Dewey halted the proceedings to admonish politely a photographer who had snapped a shot after the other picture-takers had agreed not to make any more shots.

"Gentlemen, the picture taking is over," Dewey said, looking toward a photographer in the gallery. "It will be unfair for you to have any more pictures, when all of the rest of them have agreed not to take any more."

Dewey covered a wide range of issues in answer to questions. He said he had read the Republican platform only once—while he was enroute here by plane—and that "it represents my views."

BRICKER WINS PARTY PRAISE

Ohio Executive Hailed as Brilliant Campaigner with Vote Getting Appeal.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, June 29 — Republican leaders today showered praise on Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio for gracefully stepping aside in favor of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York in the race for the G. O. P. presidential nomination.

The tall, white-haired Ohio chief executive also was hailed as a tough, brilliant campaigner with possibly more vote getting appeal than any G. O. P. vice presidential candidate in recent history.

Bricker returns to his home at Columbus tonight after being acclaimed as heartily as the presidential nominee.

The Ohio governor was known personally by most of the delegates and they welcomed the opportunity to roar their approval of Bricker as he stepped to the platform to bow out of the presidential picture.

Praised by Dewey

In his acceptance speech Dewey praised Bricker for the gracious manner in which he eliminated himself.

Bricker's supporters, though keenly disappointed because he failed to land the presidential nomination, were pleased with his decision to accept the lesser position.

Ohioans were particularly gratified to have Bricker on the ticket, since they felt his vote getting ability would aid materially their fight to keep Ohio in the Republican column for state and local tickets.

Governor and Mrs. Bricker and their son Jack occupied seats on the convention stage last night to hear Dewey make the acceptance speech. Bricker was first to congratulate Dewey when he had finished.

Attend Reception

Upon their return to their hotel, Gov. and Mrs. Bricker attended a reception by Dewey for members of the national committee.

As a campaign finale, Bricker gave a dinner for his campaign managers and members of the headquarters staff, which also was

Marion Soldier Missing at Anzio

Pvt. Charles E. Sweeney, above, has been reported missing in action in Italy since May 28. Details appeared in The Star when his wife, Mrs. Antoinette Sweeney of 591 Park street was notified. He was with an infantry unit on the Anzio beachhead. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. Sweeney of Chauncey, O., and before entering service was employed by the Marion Steam Shovel Co.

Lamb Back on Ration List; Beef Point Cost Increased

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 29—Housewives will have to take their ration books to market again in buying choice lamb cuts and soft cheeses, and the butcher will take one to two more points a pound for beef steaks and roasts.

The office of price administration, announcing point values for the period from next Sunday through July 29, said today it was necessary to put lamb chops, steaks and roasts back under rationing because national distribution has not been equitable. Values assigned range from three points a pound for some chuck roasts to 10 points for loin chops.

The supply of beef steaks and roasts will be smaller by 12 per cent in July, OPA explained in hiking the point values to a record high. A porterhouse steak, for example, will cost 14 points a pound, up two, while a seven-inch-cut standing rib roast goes from eight to 10 points a pound.

Because return of popular lamb cuts to the chart is counterbalanced by a smaller supply of beef, housewives will continue to get only 30 points a month for buying meats and fats. The allotment was 60 points a month before all meat except choice beef was made ration-free early in May.

All pork, veal and the cheaper cuts of beef and lamb remain point-free, and butter and margarine continue at 12 and two points a pound, respectively.

Soft cheeses, the so-called perishable varieties including swiss and cream, go from a point-free value to four points a pound.

NYE TAKES LEAD

FARGO, N. D., JuJne 29—Incumbent Gerald P. Nye overtook Lynn U. Stambaugh, Fargo attorney, today as late returns were received from Tuesday's primary election in the contest for the Republican nomination for U. S. senator. With an even 300 precincts still to be heard from Nye had a 64-vote margin over Stambaugh.

98 READING NEW MARION HIGH MARK

Another heat record for 1944 to date was set in Marion yesterday when the mercury reached 98, one degree higher than the previous peak of 97 on Wednesday.

Last night was the hottest of the summer so far, with temperatures dropping only to 73. A year ago, the temperature range was from a high of 80 to a low of 63.

Showers were forecast by government weather observers, and with them a drop in temperature, The Associated Press reported.

The last two days rang up new heat marks for the year in many Ohio cities. Springfield had 104, Columbus 102 which was a new record for June 28 in that city. Cleveland had 101, Youngstown 100, a new June 28 record there.

In Columbus six persons were overcome by heat, and in the late afternoon 60 employes of the district office of price administration were sent home when the mercury in their offices hit 110.

Southeastern Ohio reports indicated drouth conditions in many sections, and in Columbus the weather bureau said rainfall for the month was eight-tenths of an inch below normal.

George Potter, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. Logan Potter of Rudolph (Wood county) drowned in Van Buren lake, in Hancock county.

Kaiser Hayek, a Youngstown steel worker recently discharged from the army, was drowned last night at a Trumbull county park.

GERMAN LOSSES HIGH IN ITALY

Fifth Army Advances Along Road Littered with Wreckage of Retreating Nazis.

By The Associated Press

ROME, June 29—Along a highway littered with enemy dead and abandoned equipment, American troops of the Fifth army punched forward another five miles along Italy's west coast yesterday and captured the town of Castagneto, only 25 miles from Livorno (Leghorn), while a second American column farther inland pierced through German lines to within a dozen miles of Siena, allied headquarters said today.

Livorno is an important port 11 miles below Pisa, while Siena is a key rail and communications center 31 miles south of Florence.

An official spokesman declared the enemy "is showing signs of confusion" in the coastal sector, where the incessant batteries by American guns caused heavy casualties and the roundup of prisoners from decimated German units progressed steadily.

Win Control of Road

Capture of Castagneto gave the allies control of an important lateral road which formerly linked the enemy's coastal defenders with the Nazis' central sector.

The enemy intensified by every conceivable means the retarding of the Fifth army advance, felling trees across roads, then booby-trapping them, destroying all bridges and laying minefields. The tactics failed to prevent a close pursuit, and an enemy infantry company which attempted to break the advance by infiltration back into the captured village of Sassetta was wiped out.

An American armored force driving from the southwest captured the road junction town of Monticiano on highway 73, and leading elements thrust beyond to within 12 miles of Siena. The village of Montalcinello also was taken.

French Troops Advance

The French, on the right wing of the Fifth army, reported substantial gains, capturing the towns of Monticchiello, Pienza and Montalcino, all southeast of Siena.

It was announced that the Fifth army alone has taken over 25,000 prisoners since the offensive began seven weeks ago today.

The eighth army reported limited gains in heavy fighting in the areas of Lake Trasimeno and north of Perugia. Eleven guns were destroyed and 200 enemy troops were wiped out in mopping up Casella, six miles northeast of Perugia.

West of Lake Trasimeno the villages of Frattavecchia and La Foce were occupied.

WELCOME FOR BRICKER

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., June 29—A typical old-fashioned political celebration with its flaming flares John W. Bricker home to Columbus tonight. The Republican vice presidential nominee is due at 9:30 EWT from Chicago and will be escorted from Union station to the statehouse down streets lined with flares. The Ohio governor will speak at a rally on the grounds of the capitol.

Russian Armies Converging on City of Minsk

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW, June 29 — Soviet armies converging on Minsk drove within 37 miles of the White Russian capital today, pushing the Germans south back over the same road to Warsaw and Berlin which Napoleon followed in his disastrous retreat from Moscow.

Like a huge pincers hand the Red army reaches for Minsk, while artillery and bombers blasted a way for the ground forces.

The hand-like Soviet offensive was formed by units fanning out to the northeast of Minsk like fingers, while strong groups southeast of the city formed the thumb.

With the freeing of Mogilev the Russians for the first in nearly three years have a direct rail route between Leningrad and Odessa.

Important Development

A Russian military commentator, Col. Nikolai Akimov, said reopening of this rail route "is a factor which should not be under-estimated, for the advantage it affords in transferring forces parallel to the line of the front is one of the major conditions for achieving supremacy in any direction chosen for new blows."

The three main thrusts at Minsk were down the old Smolensk-Warsaw road; over the Bykhov-Minsk highway across the middle of the Berezina river, up through the valley of the Pluch river over the Gomel-Minsk railway and highway.

Red army troops on the Smolensk road reached the upper Berezina north of Borisov, near the actual place where Napoleon, with his staggering remnants made a crossing at the village of Studenky. Here advance units were 37 miles northeast of Minsk and Borisov appeared as good as gone.

On the Bykhov-Minsk highway Red army units approached the middle Berezina area through rolling woodlands. In the valley of the Pluch the Russians northdoga and Onezhskoe (Onega), from Minsk.

Two large scale outflanking movements were part of the Soviet grand strategy aimed at the fall of Minsk.

Baltic Army Advances

Number one is a swift sweep of Gen. Ivan Bagramian's first Baltic army through the Lepel lake country. Here advance units

WAR LOAN DRIVE HAS A DULL DAY

E Total Barely Past Half-Way Mark with $419,156.

Yesterday was the dullest one to date for the Fifth War Loan drive in Marion county.

Only 337 persons bought E bonds and their purchases amounted to only $15,768.75. Leaders pointed out daily purchases must average substantially more than that throughout the rest of this month and July to put the $819,000 E goal within reach. The E total is $419,156.50 or 51.1 per cent of the quota.

Yesterday's sales of bonds of all denominations totaled $338,087.25, giving the county a new overall total of $4,188,709 or 124.5 per cent of the $3,365,000 total quota.

Although much work is believed to have been done in the campaign so far by block leaders working the city's business district and the rural workers in the various communities and townships, few workers have made reports so far to the county drive headquarters on North State street. Their reports are expected in a few days.

One $50,000 purchase in the Fifth War Loan came from the office of County Treasurer Marion Hinklin. Current funds in the hands of the treasurer were used for short-term 7-8 per cent certificates of indebtedness. Half of the purchase was handled through city banks, half through rural banks.

BRITISH REPULSE NINE NAZI ATTACKS AND WIDEN BREACH

By The Associated Press

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, June 29—The Germans were reported today to have thrown the bulk of their 15th and 17th armies into the defense of Caen in an attempt to halt the British flanking thrust south of the inland port.

But Sir. Gen. Bernard L. Montgomery's men smashed nine counter-attacks in 24 hours and widened a breach in the enemy lines.

Supreme headquarters announced British infantry and armor were streaming across the Odon river southwest of Caen in an ever-widening bridgehead.

Field dispatches said the German command had sent virtually the entire strength of the two armies into fierce armored fighting raging on three sides of the city.

(The German communique said the British were attacking on a 17-mile front and had achieved a "minor break" in the bushy terrain southwest of Caen. One German tank formation destroyed 53 allied tanks, the communique declared. The Germans' Hitler youth 12th tank division was said to have distinguished itself in the fighting.)

A field dispatch from Associated Press Correspondent Roger Greene said hundreds of British guns laid down a "murderous barrage" against German armored forces moving up to attack the British right flank and quoted British officers as saying "German movement on the roads is being slaughtered by our planes."

The Germans threw 150 tanks into flank attacks yesterday, the dispatch said, and much hand-to-hand fighting occurred in the woods where the British hunted down Germans in camouflaged nests.

Heavy fighting raged at distances of two to four miles from the strongly-defended German base at eastern Normandy. Little change, however, has occurred in the front positions in the past 12 hours.

Tanks In Battle

While British tanks beat against the enemy in a flaming battle at points less than four miles southwest of Caen in an eastward thrust that would strangle the city's communications, other forces battered the enemy from the north and northwest in fighting almost equally as bitter.

Westward the Americans on the Cherbourg peninsula were mopping up isolated resistance in the Cap De La Hague, where it was unofficially estimated that about 2,000 Germans still are holding out.

The bag of prisoners taken there continued to increase. It was officially announced that Germans captured by U. S. forces in France from D-day to Tuesday night totalled 28,849.

Fighting around Caen in the present stage is a typical big tank battle with none knowing exactly where the front lines are and towns being overrun, only to be retaken a few hours later.

"Every British advance has been met with a most violent local counter-attack," the supreme command said. It is to be expected the Germans will make a coordinated major counter-thrust."

All Out Defense Expected

It is considered unlikely that the battle for Caen will be decided before Marshal Erwin Rommel makes such an all-out bid.

Last field reports said 80 German tanks had been destroyed in three days of the Caen fighting, bringing the campaign total to 160.

In the air, the long-dormant German air force sprang into life under a protecting cloak of clouds to support Rommel's desperate bid to drive back the British, but 27 enemy planes were downed.

U. S. Casualties Now 244,158

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 29 — American casualties in the war, including the first two weeks of battle in Normandy, total 244,158. Of these, 55,206 are dead—35,104 soldiers and 20,102 navy, marines and coast guard personnel.

Secretary of War Stimson reported today that through June 13 American Army casualties were 179,923, of wich 32,022 were killed, 73,868 wounded, 37,765 missing and 36,467 prisoners. These figures, he explained, did not include casualties in France because compilation of casualties from individual names transmitted from the field to the war department lagged behind actual events.

To be added to them, nowever, was the report of supreme Allied headquarters that during the first two weeks of fighting in France American casualties totalled 24,162, with 3,082 killed, 13,121 wounded and 7,959 missing.

The latest Navy casualty list totals 47,073, including 20,102 dead, 13,202 wounded, 9,308 missing and 4,461 prisoners.

The battle casualties for the Army not including those in France, showed an increase of 1,246 since Stimson's report of a week ago which covered the period through June 6. There was an increase of 733 dead and 2,236 wounded.

The Navy casualty list was 368 above a week ago, with 58 more dead and 297 wounded.

Official records in Washington list American casualties in World war I at 278,828, but this admittedly is not an exact total, inasmuch as the Navy figures do not include any wounded category, and there is no uniformity of categories among the various reporting branches.

1,000 U. S. Heavy Bombers Hit German Plane and Oil Centers

By The Associated Press

LONDON, June 29 — Upwards of 1,000 Fortresses and Liberators attacked Germany today, hitting four aircraft producing centers, a synthetic oil refinery and a number of other military and industrial targets in the center of the reich.

Escorted by an equal number of fighters, the heavies attacked aircraft plants at Leipzig, Oschersleben, Aschersleben and Fallersleben and a refinery at Bohlsen, capping a 12-hour allied air offensive which saw more than 3,000 warplanes scourging important Nazi installations across the face of northwestern Europe.

Leipzig, Oschersleben and Aschersleben are within 90 to 100 miles southwest of Berlin, while Fallersleben is 40 miles east of Hannover. Bohlsen also is in the Hannover area.

Rail Centers Hit

Railroad centers haltingly feeding reinforcements to the Germans' taxed battlelines were other targets in the big assault.

In darkness before the American heavies swept out, some 500 RAF Halifaxes carried the campaign against Nazi supply lines to the German border, bombing railroad yards in the region of Metz, near the world war battlefield of Verdun.

Simultaneously, night raiding Mosquitos hit Saarbrucken, a railroad center attacked by the American heavies yesterday, and an oil plant near Essen in the Ruhr.

The Mosquitos made their at-

Text of Dewey Acceptance Speech

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, June 29—Following is the text of Thomas E. Dewey's address last night accepting the Republican presidential nomination at his party's national convention:

I am profoundly moved by the trust you have placed in me. I deeply feel the responsibility which goes with your nomination for president of the United States at this grave hour of our nation's history.

That I have not sought this responsibility, all of you know. I told the people of my state, two years ago, that it was my intention to devote my full term as governor exclusively to their service. You have decided otherwise. In accordance with the principles of our Republican form of government you have laid upon me the highest duty to which an American can be called. With the help of God, I shall try to be worthy of the trust. I accept the nomination.

I come to this great task a free man. I have made no pledges, promises or commitments, expressed or implied to any man or woman. I shall make none, except to the American people.

These pledges I do make:

To men and women of the Republican party everywhere I pledge my utmost efforts in the months ahead. In return, I ask for your support. Without it, I cannot discharge the heavy obligation you lay upon me.

To Americans of every party I pledge that on January 20th next your government will again have a cabinet of the ablest men and women to be found in America. Its members will expect and will receive full delegation of the powers of their office. They will be capable of administering those powers. They will each be experienced in the task to be done and young enough to do it. This election will bring an end to one-man government in America.

PROMISES TO KEEP U. S. FREE NATION

To Americans of every party I pledge a campaign dedicated to one and above all others—that this nation under God may continue in the years ahead a free nation of free men.

At this moment on battlegrounds around the world Americans are dying for the freedom of our country. Their comrades are pressing on in the face of hardship and suffering. They are pressing on for total victory and for the liberties of all of us.

Everything we say or do today and in the future must be devoted to the single purpose of that victory. Then when victory is won, we must devote ourselves with equal unity of purpose to re-winning at home the freedom they have won at such desperate cost abroad.

To our Allies let us send from this convention one message from our hearts: The American people are united with you to the limit of our resources and our manpower, devoted to the single task of victory and the establishment of a firm and lasting peace.

To every member of the Axis powers let us send this message: By this political campaign, which you are unable to understand, our will to victory will be strengthened, and with every day you further delay surrender the consequences to you will be more severe.

That we shall win this war none of us and few of our enemies have any doubt. But how we win this war is of major importance for the years ahead. We won the last war but it did not stay won. This time we must also win the purposes for which we are fighting. Germany must never again nourish the delusion that she could have won. We must carry to Japan a defeat so crushing and complete that every last man among them knows that he has been beaten. We must not merely defeat the armies and navies of our enemies. We must defeat, once and for all, their will to make war. In their hearts as well as with their lips, let them be taught to say: "Never again."

MILITARY LEADERS WILL RUN WAR

The military conduct of the war is outside this campaign. It is and must remain completely out of politics. Gen. Marshall and Admiral King are doing a superb job. Thank God for both of them. Let me make it crystal clear that a change of administration next January cannot and will not involve any change in the military conduct of the war. If there is not now any civilian interference with the military and naval commands, a change in administration will not alter that status. If there is civilian interference, the new administration will put a stop to it forthwith.

But the war is being fought on the home front as well as aboard. While all of us are deeply proud of the military conduct of the war, can we honestly say that the home front could not bear improvement? The present administration in Washington has been in office for more than 11 years.

Today, it is at war with Congress, and at war with itself. Squabbles between cabinet members, feuds between rival bureaucrats and bitterness between the president and his own party members, in and out of Congress, have become the order of the day. In the vital matters of taxation, price control, rationing, labor relations, man power, we see the spectacle of wrangling, bungling and confusion.

Does anyone suggest that the present national administration is giving either efficient or competent government? We have not heard that claim made, even by its most fanatical supporters. No, all they tell us is that in its young days it did some good things. That we freely grant. But now it has grown old in office. It has become tired and quarrelsome. It seems that the great men who founded this nation really knew what they were talking about when they said that three terms were too many.

WOULD REST PEACE ON ROCK OF PUBLIC OPINION

When we have won the war, we shall still have to win the peace. We are agreed, all of us, that America will participate with other sovereign nations in a co-operative effort to prevent future wars. Let us face up boldly to the magnitude of that task. We shall not make secure the peace of the world by mere words. We cannot do it simply by drawing up a fine-sounding treaty. It cannot be the work of one man or of a little group of rulers who meet together in private conferences. The structure of peace must be built. It must be the work of many men. We must have as our representatives in this task the ablest men and women America can produce, and the structure they join in building must rest upon the solid rock of a united American public opinion.

I am not one of those who despair of achieving that end. I am utterly confident we can do it. For years, we have had men in Washington who were notoriously weak in certain branches of arithmetic but who specialized in division. They have played up minor differences of opinion among our people until the people of other countries might have thought that America was cleft in two.

But all the while there was a large, growing area of agreement. Recently the overpowering majesty of that broad area of agreement has become obvious. The Republican party can take pride in helping to define it and broaden it. There are only a few, a very few, who really believe that America should try to remain aloof from the world. There are only a relatively few who believe it would be practical for America or her allies to renounce all sovereignty and join a superstate. I certainly would not deny those two extremes the right to their opinions; but I stand firmly with the overwhelming majority of my fellow citizens in that great wide area of agreement. That agreement was clearly expressed by the Republican Mackinac declaration and was adopted in the foreign policy plank of this convention.

FIRST OBJECTIVE IS FULL EMPLOYMENT

No organization for peace will last if it is slipped through by stealth or trickery or the momentary hypnotism of high-sounding phrases. We shall have to work and pray and be patient and make sacrifices to achieve a really lasting peace. That is not too much to ask in the name of those who have died for the future of our country. This is no task to be entrusted to stubborn men, grown old and tired and quarrelsome in office. We learned that in 1919.

The building of the peace is more than a matter of international cooperation. God has endowed America with such blessings as to fit her for a great role in the world. We can only play that role if we are strong and healthy and vigorous as nature equipped us to be. It would be a tragedy after this war if Americans returned from our armed forces and failed to find the freedom and opportunity for which they fought. This must be a land where every man and woman has a fair chance to work and get ahead. Never again must free Americans face the spectre of long-continued, mass unemployment. We Republicans are agreed that full employment shall be a first objective of national policy. By full employment I mean a real chance for every man and woman to earn a decent living, at a decent wage.

What hope does the present administration offer here? In 1940, the year before this country entered the war, there were still ten million unemployed. After seven years of unequaled power and unparalleled spending, the New Deal had failed utterly to solve that problem. It never solved that problem. It was left to be solved by war. Do we have to have a war in order to get jobs?

What are we now offered? Only the dreary prospect of a continued war economy after the war, with interference piled on interference and petty tyrannies rivaling the very regimentation against which we are now at war.

PROBLEM NEVER SOLVED BY NEW DEAL

The present administration has never solved this fundamental problem of jobs and opportunity. It never can solve this problem. It has never even understood what makes a job. It has never been for full production. It has lived in chattering fear of abundance. It has specialized in curtailment and restriction. It has been consistently hostile to and abusive of American business and American industry, although it is in business and industry that most of us make our living.

In all the record of the past 11 years is there anything that suggests the present administration can bring about high-level employment after this war? Is there any reason to believe that those who have so signally failed in the past can succeed in the future? The problem of jobs will not be easily solved; but it will never be solved at all unless we get a new, progressive administration in Washington—and that means a Republican administration.

For 150 years America was the hope of the world. Here on this great broad continent we had brought into being something for which men had longed throughout all history. Here, all men were held to be free and equal. Here, government derived its just powers from the consent of the governed. Here men believed passionately in freedom, independence—the God-given right of the individual to be his own master. Yet, with all of this freedom—I insist—because of this freedom—ours was a land of plenty. In a fashion unequaled anywhere else in the world, America grew and strengthened, our standard of living became the envy of the world. In all lands, men and women looked toward America as the pattern of what they, themselves, desired. And because we were what we were, good will flowed toward us from all corners of the world. An American was welcomed everywhere and looked upon with admiration and regard.

U. S. FALTERS ONLY TO GO AHEAD

At times, we had our troubles: made our share of mistakes; but we faltered only to go forward with renewed vigor. It remained for this past 11 years, under the present national administration, for continuing unemployment to be accepted with resignation as the inevitable condition of a nation past its prime.

It is the New Deal which tells us that America has lost its capacity to grow. We shall never build a better world by listening to those counsels of defeat. Is America old and worn out? Look to the beaches of Normandy for the answer. Look to the reaches of the wide Pacific—to the corners of the world where American men are fighting. Look to the marvels of production in the war plants in your own towns I say to you. Our country is just fighting its way through to new horizons. The future of America has no limit.

True we now pass through dark and troubled times. Scarcely a home escapes the touch of dread anxiety and grief; yet in this hour the American spirt rises, faith returns—faith in our God, faith in our fellowmen, faith in the land our fathers died to win, faith in the future, limitless, and bright of this our country.

In the name of that faith we shall carry our cause in the coming months to the American people.

U. S. Citizenship Conferred on Fourteen in Ceremony Here

...f Alien Birth Is Welcomed After Oath of Allegiance Is Taken at Courthouse.

By EDNA S. DUTTON

...een men and women who first saw the light of day in lands ...ing with or against their adopted country, answered ques... ...ending government and pledged their allegiance to the ...ries in a court of naturalization yesterday at the Marion ...courthouse. Judge Clarence U. Ahl, of Bucyrus presided for the ... and the applicants were examined by William E. Fanning, ... Naturalization Examiner of Columbus, formerly of the Cincin... ..., who was conducting his first class in Marion. The oath of allegiance was administered by Elmer Smith, clerk of courts and there was a short program in which the new citizens were welcomed following their presentation and examination. "It was a well prepared class—far above the ordinary, and they will make good citizens," was Mr. Fanning's comment, following the exercises.

It meant the end of months and for some, years of study, interviews and correspondence to obtain proof of their eligibility to become citizens of the United States, and the beginning of new responsibilities as legal residents of the country. All had been interviewed and examined by Mr. Fanning prior to yesterday's formal exercises and questions regarding legislation and other phases of government were presented by the examiner to the class as a whole.

Pledge Taken

Yesterday's class pledged their loyalty and love to their newly-adopted homeland not only that they might better serve and enjoy the privileges and protection of a democratic government but also through sons and near relatives serving with the United States armed forces.

It was a red letter day for Michael Nicolosi of 141 Waterloo street, for it not only marked his first day as a citizen of the United States, but it was his 63rd birthday anniversary and his son, Anthony John Nicolosi, 24, yeoman 1/c, USNR, was present for the ceremony. Two other sons of Mr. Nicosoli have received honorable discharges for medical reasons after serving their country. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Nicolosi have seven nephews in service, Constantino Arcuri has a son in the U. S. Marines. Albert Cicero, Mrs. Conceita Britz and James Brown each have a son now serving with the armed forces, the records show. Yeoman Nicolosi is home on a 30-day leave following injuries received while on duty in the Pacific war area.

Welcomes Spoken

Bernard Moloney, chairman of the public relations committee of the Marion County Bar association, presided for the program. In keeping with a custom of the chapter, Mrs. Fanny Benson, regent of Captain William Hendriks chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, wlecomed the new citizens, and Mrs. Harold K. Mouser, a member of the chapter, presented each with a citizenship manual on behalf of the chapter. American Flags will be sent each new citizen from the chapter in recognition of their becoming citizens.

Henry A. Mickley, president of the Marion County Bar association extended a welcome on behalf of his organization. After congratulating the group on their newly-gained citizenship he asked that they assume the responsibilities in all seriousness, and said that in becoming citizens "the more of these responsibilities you assume the more privileges you will receive.

In his talk to the class Judge Ahl reminded them that in receiving the privileges of citizenship they also had taken the responsibility of these privileges. The main business of every citizen today, he pointed out, is the business of winning the war. Refraining from complaining of the hardships necessitated by the war, keeping others from complaining, buying war bonds and taking an active part in their sale, stopping inflation, detecting sabotage and obeying the law are ways in which new citizens can help their adopted country, Judge Ahl said.

Privileges Explained

After explaining that it is his duty to ascertain if they have a knowledge of the government of the United States sufficient to become citizens and recommending that they be granted this privilege, Mr. Fanning said: "It has been conferred upon you not only citizenship but a great American heritage. Everything near and dear to the American heart has been bestowed upon you; it has been purchased by the blood and heartaches of a people determined to be free, free not only themselves but those who follow."

An invitation was extended by Robert Williams, representing the Kiwanis club, to the new citizens to be guests of the club at the weekly luncheon today at Hotel Harding.

The following received their citizenship certificates: James Brown, 62, 151 Carhart street, native of Scotland, admitted Oct. 24, 1910; Walter Threlfall, 52, Prospect, native of Blackburn, Lancastershire, England, admitted Jan. 14, 1926; Agnes Irvine, 56, 171 North Greenwood street, native of Boulton, England, admitted Dec. 30, 1912; Helen Finley, 29, 315 Leader street, native of Pelee Island, Ontario, Canada, admitted Nov. 28, 1941; James Irvine, 60, 127 Sharpless court, native of Thornliebank, Scotland, admitted Dec. 30, 1912; Mrs. Vincenza Calabrese, 57, 225 Senate street, native of Castenabarda provincia, Messina, Italy, admitted March 14, 1918; Mrs. Concetta Britz, 43, 278 Senate street, native of Ardore, Italy, admitted Dec. 19, 1918; Albert Cicero, 50, 429 Avondale avenue, native of Pedia, Italy, admitted March 8, 1906; Michael Nicolosi, 63, 141 Waterloo street, native of Monreale, Italy, admitted March 27, 1911; Josephine Nicolosi, 53, 150 Scioto street, native of Monreale Italy, admitted March 11, 1913; Constantino Arcuri, 56, 262 Cass avenue, native of Strongoli, Italy, admitted Feb. 9, 1911; Mrs. Quintilla Corezza, 58, 555 Park street, native of Montalla, Italy, admitted Sept. 25, 1915; Joseph Nicolosi, 65, 150 Scioto street, native of Monreale, Italy, admitted March 1905; Guiseppa G. Todaro, 52, 123 Scioto street, native of Licata, Italy, admitted September 1904.

The application of Bruno Morbitt, 278 Senate street, native of Bombile, Italy, now serving with the armed forces, was not considered as he was admitted to citizenship at Sacramento, Calif. in April of this year following his entrance into service.

The list of applicants includes two married couples, Mr. and Mrs. Irvine and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Nicolosi. Mr. Nicolosi also is a brother of Michael Nicolosi.

PRISONER OF NAZIS — It is reported that Lieutenant Viscount Lascelles, 21, son of the Princess Royal and nephew of King George VI of England, has been wounded and taken prisoner by the Germans on the Italian front. His father is Lord Harewood, the sixth Earl of Harewood.

There are water tunnels as deep as 800 feet below New York City.

In and Around Marion

Impatient Gardener

One fond grandfather was definitely stumped recently when his three-year-old grandson came trotting in with two cabbage plants and one tomato plant clutched in a grimy fist. Before he could say anything, the young gardener held them up and said, "Are these big enough to eat now, grandpa?" Grandpa has lately been tending his very small garden without the all-seeing grandchild tagging along.

* * *

Protest

One woman called in the other day with this reminder about the changing "very young generation." She said that when the neighborhood youngsters come around on pay day she usually gives each one a nickel for candy. Recently quite an aggregation popped up, on payday sure, but it was before the woman had had a chance to cash a check. So she divided what change she had and it netted each youngster a penny. She explained carefully that she hadn't had time to go to the bank and hoped the penny was all right this time. One bright young man reluctantly agreed that it was all right, then he slowly turned around and said, "But, gee what can a guy buy with just a penn?"

Swimming "Don'ts"

Swimming season is here and sunburns are very much in evidence. Here are some "don'ts" for the beach. Don't stay in the sun for too long at a time, especially at first, and, like one young woman, be unable to report for work the next day because of too much enthusiasm for the sun's rays. Don't forget to take along a jar of some good burn prevention cream and use it generously. And don't, like a trusting lad who vacationed at Lake Erie last year, leave $2 in your shoe while you go in for a dip and have to wire home for money to get you out of the summer resort.

* * *

Payment Coming?

A young woman of our acquaintance observed recently an interesting way to secure cooperation from bus drivers if you girls want out at a point where there is no regular bus stop. Two young misses riding in the back of a crowded vehicle penned a note complete with "kisses" and passed it up front to the operator. He obligingly stopped at the desired spot to let them out but did not collect the reward.

Martel Group Gives Program for Grange

Members of Martel grange visited United grange at a meeting Tuesday night and presented the traveling candle and the program. Mrs. James McKinstry was in charge of the program. H. M. Moore, superintendent of Martel school, gave a talk on American patriotism, Mrs. Jay Hedding and Mrs. McKinstry gave vocal solos, President Roosevelt's prayer for the invasion was read by Jay Hedding, Mrs. Elma Downs and Ward Sharrock gave readings and the candle service was conducted by officers of Martel grange with Mrs. Downs at the piano. The program closed with the singing of "Blest Be the Tie That Binds." Refreshments were served by United grange.

Children's Program Held at Claridon

CLARIDON—A children's program held recently at Claridon Methodist church included the following: recitations by Jean Haley, Lin Burnsides, Jane Haley, Warren Burgraff, David Gattschall, Harold Burnsides, Ralph Eddie and Dickie Reed, Joan Ross, Faye Bell, Norma Burgraff, Earl Auld, Loren Fulton; piano selections by Joan Lyons and Mary Kline; songs by Kenneth Tittlebaugh, Mary Kline, the pimary department and also songs by the choir. Harold Syckle, a guest, gave a recitation.

Mrs. Lura Aye Myers of Claridon attended the fifty-fifth reunion of her graduation class at Ohio Wesleyan university Saturday at Delaware.

Ashley Grange Hears 4-H, Lecturer's Report

Special to The Star

ASHLEY—Ashley Grange met Monday. Harper Bartlett, advisor for the 4-H Boys' club gave a report. Mrs. Garrie Strine, the lecturer, gave a report on the lecturers' short course which she attended in Columbus.

The remainder of the time was spent in planning for the Grange program for Friday of the fair and in rehearsing songs under the direction of Paul Stevens.

Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Burnside entertained with a dinner Sunday observing the sixteenth birth anniversary of their granddaughter. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Thompson of Marion and Bill Clase of near Ashley.

BEHIND THE LINES—A Frenchwoman and a little girl move away from the blazing Normandy battle front in the time-honored conveyance of a horse-drawn cart.

River Flood Hampers Grand Canyon Rescue

By The Associated Press

GRAND CANYON, Ariz., June 29—The Colorado river raging at flood stage thwarted attempts of two rescue parties to save three parachutists encamped on a Grand Canyon plateau but seasoned rangers, a mountaineer and army personnel were descending into the gorge today hopeful by the hour of reaching the men.

Ed Laws, veteran ranger, and Dr. A. A. Macrae, expert mountaineer, left the north rim of the chasm yesterday and moved downward through fissures in the rock toward the marooned airmen's shelter.

Army personnel and two rangers made up the second party still active today.

Rescuers were heartened yesterday by signals and radio messages from the plateau indicating the three were in excellent condition despite more than a week's isolation in the shadown gorge. Two-way radios were dropped from the plane and almost immediately they broadcast assurances of good health.

More than 200,000,000 people speak English.

Fourth of July Spread

PATRIOTIC PLATTER...For a stay-at-home Fourth.

By CHARLOTTE ADAMS
Associated Press Food Editor

The husbands, fathers and sons who are fighting so gloriously to maintain the independence we celebrate on the Fourth of July would surely want us to take note of that great day, despite their absence. So let's have the traditional Fourth of July spread, but let's keep it simple and show in that way that we recognize that this is a particularly solemn Fourth. Don't leave out the red, white and blue we all love more than ever, though. Let your table show why you're having a party, even if it's only for the family.

Luncheon is a good time for the Fourth of July party—after everybody's come home from the parade, perhaps. They'll all be hot and hungry and a platter such as the one illustrated will look inviting, particularly if it's backed up by long cold glasses of limeaid as this one is. Somehow, there's no drink more cooling than one made out of limes. Here's how to fix the platter and make the limeade:

Fourth of July Platter

1 loaf unsliced fresh bread, 1-3 cup prepared mustard, 1 tablespoon prepared horse-radish, 6 cups potato salad, ¼ cup chopped chives, ½ pound sliced bologna, ½ pound sliced liver sausage, ½ pound spiced pork, ½ pound sliced ham.

Cut off all crusts from bread; slice bread very thinly. (It's easier if bread is first chilled in refrigerator.) Mix mustard and horse-radish and spread on the bread slices. Roll up each one and tie with red, white and blue ribbon. Combine potato salad and chives (saving a teaspoonful to sprinkle over the top) and mound in the center of a large serving platter. Stand a small flag in the center. Arrange sliced meats around the salad. Place rolled-up sandwiches in a ring around the meat slices.

Florida Limeade

3 cups water, ½ cup sugar, peel of 2 limes, 1½ cups lime juice, lime slices.

Combine water, sugar and lime peel and boil gently five minutes. Cool and remove peel. Combine with lime juice. Pour over ice in tall glasses and garnish with lime slices.

A plate of raw vegetables arranged with an eye to color would be a perfect accompaniment.

For dessert on Fourth of July there should really be ice cream.

Don't Forget Birthday Cake

By BETSY NEWMAN

Don't forget the birthday cake, even if there is a shortage of sugar. Hoard your supply, if necessary, allowing each member of the family the least possible, so that you can have enough to make that cake. A tiny girl of my acquaintance recently had a "chocolate" birthday that she had been talking about for months.

White Cake

½ c. shortening, 1 c. sugar, 3 egg whites, 1 tsp. vanilla, 2 c. pastry flour, 3 tsp. baking powder, ¼ tsp. salt, 2/3 c. milk.

Cream shortening, add sugar slowly, beating in well; all unbeaten eggs one at a time, beating well after each addition; add flavoring. Sift flour, measure and sift again with baking powder and salt; add alternately with milk to first mixture. Pour into well greased round loaf pan, and bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) about 50 minutes. For layers, bake in well greased layer cake pans in moderate oven (375 degrees F.) about 25 minutes.

Gold Cake

½ c. shortening, ¾ c. sugar, 6 egg yolks, ½ tsp. lemon or vanilla extract, ¼ tsp. salt, 1¾ c. pastry flour, 2 tsp. baking powder, ½ c. milk.

Cream shortening, add sugar slowly, beating in well. Add egg yolks and beat until light and creamy; add flavoring. Sift together flour, baking powder and salt, and add alternately with milk to first mixture. Bake in greased square or loaf pan in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 30 minutes. Makes 1 8-in. cake or 2 8-in. layers.

Devil's Food Cake

2 c. sifted cake flour, 3 tsp. baking powder, 6 tbsps. cocoa, ½ c. shortening, 1 c. sugar, 3 tbsps. evaporated milk diluted to 2/3 liquid, 1 tsp. vanila, 3 egg whites, beaten.

Sift flour, measure and sift with baking powder and cocoa. Sift 3 times. Cream shortening until light and fluffy, gradually add sugar and cream together thoroughly. Add sifted dry ingredients alternately with diluted evaporated milk, stir until smooth and add vanila. Lastly fold in stiffly beaten egg whites and turn into 2 9-in. layer cake pans. Bake at (375 degrees F.) 25 minutes. Frost with 7-minute frosting.

Cleared for Action

THE Republican party has cleared its decks for action. Whatever may be the outcome of the election, the campaign will have brought the party to its finest fighting trim in a political generation.

Gov. Dewey's sweeping nomination for the presidency is symbolic of the party's complete accord. It has enlisted his youth and his fresh approach to public problems to hold out the hope of a revived political spirit to all voters.

As former President Hoover told the convention, the party now passes into the hands of young and vigorous men. Something like that almost happened in Philadelphia four years ago, but then the transfer was awkward. Wendell Willkie's nomination to the presidency did not fuse party unity.

The passage of four years—four momentous years—sharpened the political focus. The ultimate issue lying between the political philosophy of President Roosevelt's administration and the opposition is clearer today. It will be even clearer by next November.

For the first time in many years a political party will go into a campaign with a vice presidential candidate who has vastly more than sectional and minority influence. It was plain at the convention that Gov. Bricker's bid for the presidential nomination was rejected only because of circumstances which made Gov. Dewey appear to be the more logical choice. Gov. Bricker is as well qualified for the leadership of the ticket as Gov. Dewey. In the opinion of many members of the party, and his willingness to step aside for the sake of the party's welfare has increased his already great stature. Here is no Henry W. Wallace, with nothing but the strength imparted by association, but a man who holds strength of his own making in his own right.

Gov. Bricker will step directly from the job he has been doing as the Republican party's ablest spokesman into his new role of co-bearer of the Republican standard. Gov. Dewey, who comes to the campaign fresh, demonstrated Wednesday night in his acceptance speech the power he will bring to the task of presenting the issues of 1944.

The highest function of a party convention is the rededication of strength for the preservation of principles. The convention in Chicago has performed that function. The convention has stimulated the opposition to the incumbent administration. It has given a fresh lease on life to the two-party system. It has strengthened the determination of its members to fight for their convictions and has attracted the attention of the electorate at large. The party now must stand or fall on what it has done. Its chances of victory are brighter at this point than they have been for 16 years.

Fellow Robots

ROBOT, as applied to the winged bombs being hurled across the English channel by the Germans, is not the exact word, because the bombs in no sense fit the idea behind the word. In fact, both the word and the idea are only hazily understood.

Robot, says Webster, is derived from a Czech word, robota, meaning compulsory work. Its meaning for English-speaking people was established shortly after World war I by Karel Capek's famous play whose title, in the English translation, was "R. U. R. (Rossum's Universal Robots)." It was a satire on the mechanical tendencies of modern civilization—a theme of machinery being put together in the form of men. Hence, machines which take the place of men, or men who resemble machinery in the way they work have come to be known as robots. The best pronunciation i.e., the most natural—is indicated by the usual sound of r-o-b in English. Thus, the word becomes rob-ut, though it may also be pronounced row-bott and rub-ut, but never row-bo, despite certain radio announcers who suspect it of French derivation.

Probably if Capek had lived—he died in 1938—he would find plenty of evidence in World war II to sharpen his satire on civilization's mechanical tendencies, but probably not Germany's winged bombs, which are little more than rockets with unusually wide range and correspondingly narrow control.

So They Say—

There was very heavy fighting on that American beach all D-Day, swaying back and forth, and by the end of the day the Americans were not more than 100 yards inland and were hanging on by their eyelids. You can imagine Americans doing that.—Gen. Montgomery.

It is important to know human nature and what men can do to get men into the right places doing the right job.—Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery.

Whether it (victory) be this year or next, the British and American peoples will never falter or withdraw their hand from the task they have undertaken.—Prime Minister Winston Churchill.

When a Red army man puts a pistol to a German soldier's head at the front, the captive screams "Hitler kaput" (Hitler's through), but in America they pat the prisoner on the head and he replies by putting his feet on the table. —International Review, Russian publication.

News Behind the News

Several Surprises Expected in Dewey's Forthcoming Presidential Campaign.

By PAUL MALLON

CHICAGO, June 29—This coming Dewey presidential campaign is likely to surprise the country.

Not unlike the earlier Mr. Roosevelt he has novel ideas. Though not the near-zany he appeared to political amateurs, he is far from party bound.

He wears the oldtime politician's title, because his methods are different, although his inside record at the convention shows surprisingly few mistakes.

To give you the close-up picture, consider his designation of a woman as his leader on the platform committee. Lawyer and politician haggle hours over words in these platform meetings and Dewey stepped up and made it as easy as that.

A sharpster in words is usually a scrambler's choice for that task. Dewey chose small, pleasant gray haired Miss Mary Donlin, a New York attorney, to represent him. She was the first out of the meeting at 5:30 a. m.

Three Factions

But to go deeper than this example, there were three factions within that committee as indeed within this whole convention—not Democrats, Bricker boys, Stassen men, etc., but a group of senators, a clan of governors and a third crowd of just plain delegate political workers from back home.

The governors clan, representing 26 states, considers itself more important politically than the senators, and got its gumption up to such an extent that the senators listen to them.

However governors are not up on the national issues to the extent that the senators are, who handle them daily. In fact the governors seemed to have little to complain about and apparently they just wanted recognition for themselves rather than any special viewpoint.

In this conflict, Dewey seems to have largely let the senators write the declaration of party principles. Taft of Ohio, Danaher of Connecticut and Millikin of Colorado did most of it. Through Miss Doplin and otherwise, Dewey exercised mainly a negative influence, vetoing words, phrases, some ideas.

The Platform

Actually this platform is just the party's preparation for the candidate to take over. Some political assayers are now reading great hidden meanings into the thinly shaved words which were adopted. As usual, and particularly in the case of the footloose Mr. Dewey, they are wasting their time. What he reads into the platform, especially what he wants to do about it later is what the platform will be.

One sentence particularly awaits his interpretation, the one promising that the world organization will take "effective cooperative means to direct peace forces to prevent or repel military aggression." Police force, directly or indirectly? Sovereignty? Some experts think this phrase is a sleeping termite in the international plank.

At any rate Dewey is not the type to be content with generalities and phrase compromises when he sits in the top chair.

Liberal

Personally I expect him to be a lot more liberal than the country expects. I think he will strive for an enlightened common sense liberalism as distinct from the loose political liberalism which thinks for instance a poll tax is still important. (I mean the Willkie type of political liberalism.) It will cramp on greater social security, for instance, and more state medical aid instead of the New Deal's socialized medicine.

On international affairs, I expect him to be neither internationalist nor isolationist. I think the goal is "realism," realism in regard to Russia, to the rise of Communists in European leadership, in regard to British empire trade necessities, considering the developments which will rise in connection with a world organization.

On the surface of the platform adopted here and Dewey's international declarations, there appears to be Democratic-Republican unity on foreign policy, but this is only a mutual acceptance of democratic principles (sovereignty etc.)

There will be a break between Roosevelt and Dewey on these matters when the administration starts applying these principles in action. I doubt if Dewey will consider them in accord with the formula.

Labor Stand

His labor stand will likewise surprise you. The CIO political action crowd has made the front pages look like Dewey is anti-labor. Fact is he has gotten along well with union labor in New York state. What he did not get along with was the radical element in and out of labor.

Now the radicals peculiarly in this campaign are idealistically in the same boat as reactionaries, including the international bankers.

Both the leftists and conservatives wanted "one world," or "union now," a world state, a quart of milk a day, etc. Between these two is a great portion of labor and also the average citizen. The American Federation of Labor, for instance, is ideologically, just about where I expect Dewey will wind up on labor (strongly anti-Communist.)

On the other issues in the head of the man in the street, although these are not really issues, except as politicians have made political footballs of them, I have heard a New York Republican leader claim Dewey will get a million Jewish votes in New York City and much intellectual Negro support.

Working Organization

He has a nucleus of a working organization ready to start. His advisers generally have long been chosen are in the crowd around him now.

It is possible they may become too clannish as the campaign develops, and too lawyerish but they will have to rely in nearly all the states on the local Republican organizations (he has no state political leaders of his own) and this no doubt will prevent his men from becoming too independent.

I expect he will storm the country, probably make more speeches than usual. He will let the country know him as New York knows him.

Today and Tomorrow

U. S. Believed Preparing To Build Solid Relations with France.

By WALTER LIPPMANN

WITH Cherbourg in our hands, the western Allies are no longer on a French beachhead. They are in France. The solidarity of our alliance with the Soviet Union, the skill and intelligence of the British-American team, the valor and the martial quality of our new armies, the reality of the French resistance, have been tested and proved.

These mighty events, as they continue to unfold, will now shape the political decisions which have to be taken during and after the war. They have already begun to shape them.

Our relations with France, which 10 days ago seemed to have sunk to their lowest and meanest point, have taken a decided, and it may even be, a radical turn for the better. Though we had been unable to reach a formula of agreement with Gen. de Gaulle and the French Committee, agreement is developed out of the necessities and the inevitabilities of the situation itself.

As a matter of fact the civil government of liberated French territory is in the hands of the representatives of the Committee, and the famous Fighting French general, Joseph Pierre Koenig has been recognized by Gen. Eisenhower as the commander of all the resistance behind the German lines.

Important Developments

The importance of these developments can be measured when we remember what was the most cogent reason given for not agreeing in advance to these arrangements. It was that we had intelligence reports that inside of France there were organized resistance groups, indispensable to the invasion, who did not recognize and would oppose the leadership of Gen. de Gaulle and the authority of the committee.

These reports, of which much has been made in Washington, were never given serious credit by the British and other governments which operate older and more experienced intelligence services in France than we, who are still amateurs in these matters, have been able to improvise.

Gen. Eisenhower cannot afford to be misinformed on a matter of this sort. He has for his use the combined intelligence service of all the United Nations. He has, moreover, had nearly three weeks to judge the military importance of the French resistance. It has played a telling part, at frightful risk, in obstructing the German effort to bring up new division to attack the beachhead.

In accepting the de Gaullist general as the commander of all French resistance, Gen. Eisenhower has judged that there are no active patriot forces which are incapable of working with Gen.

Design for Success in Pacific War

By Fred Hampson
Associated Press Writer.

TRANSFER of Admiral William F. Halsey from his South Pacific command to leadership of the Third fleet in the Central Pacific signalized the end of the Navy's South Pacific campaign and called attention to the reason why the "island hopping" campaign against Japan is ahead of schedule.

Admiral Halsey—and this fact has not been given the attention it deserves—proved island defense bastions can be made useless without a foot soldier ever approaching them.

He smashed Japan's defense keystones of Rabaul on New Britain and Kavieng on New Ireland without the loss of a single infantryman. His campaign entered its final phase last fall with invasion of the Treasury and Bougainville islands and ended, for all practical purposes, with seizure of Green and Emirau islands this spring.

Lessons learned in the South Pacific campaign paved the way for massive blows now being struck at Japan's inner circle of defense. Navy generals of the South Pacific is Admiral William F. Halsey, just lately transferred to duty in the Central Pacific, where the Japanese soon will feel the impact of his daring tactics. This dispatch was sent from an advanced base in the South Pacific.

As a result, Admiral Halsey is hailed by the personnel of his command as the first commander to exploit to the fullest the amphibious by-passing tactics now common in Pacific warfare. He set the pattern for a new kind of warfare.

Following naval victories in the middle Solomons and after air strength had made the northern Solomons untenable for Japanese warships, Admiral Halsey wasted no time inching up coastlines and knocking out Japanese garrisons. He leap-frogged on the grand scale. Today, in the middle and northern Solomons somewhere between 30,000 and 50,000 Japanese, isolated and unsupplied, are subsisting on jungle gardens—out of the war to all intents and purposes. Those left after hunger and disease have taken their toll can be taken care of when there are no more important jobs to do.

BOUGAINVILLE was the critical point in the final campaign. When Admiral Halsey sent a Marine and an Army division into Empress Augusta bay, he bypassed heavy Japanese concentrations on Choiseul, the Shortlands and South Bougainville. He ventured within 25 miles of Rabaul when Rabaul still held strong navy and air potential.

The Fifth Army air force from New Guinea struck Rabaul just before the Bougainville landing and reported heavy damage. However, on Nov. 1, D-day at Bougainville, the Japanese twice aimed 100-plane strikes toward our incipient beachhead at a moment when troops and supplies were jammed into a narrow target. Halsey's South Pacific air force beat them off.

The Japanese also concentrated cruiser-destroyer strength at Rabaul and dispatched additional cruisers from Truk. These forces heavily overbalanced American naval strength interposed between Rabaul and Empress Augusta bay.

But the Japanese struck piecemeal, first with a destroyer force. This was intercepted off northern Bougainville. Probably five enemy destroyers were sunk without loss to us in one of the most lopsided naval victories of the war.

Meanwhile, with Rabaul's only slightly-damaged air power still menacing the narrow Bougainville beachhead, Halsey stealthily hustled a large carrier, the only one then available, into the northern Solomons by circuitous route. On Nov. 2, Navy fliers in a surprise raid so thoroughly smashed Rabaul's remaining cruisers and destroyer strength and so diminished its immediate air strength that Bougainville for the moment was safe from counter-invasion, naval shelling and overpowering air attack. Tacticians called it one of the smartest, tastiest deployment of all forces in minute conjunction and precise timing ever improvised and executed in the Pacific war.

It ended the Japanese sea menace.

INVASION of Bougainville—springboard for the whole final chapter of South Pacific fighting—was preceded by reduction in three months of all Japanese airfields. It was an air victory by Halsey's South Pacific air force.

When airfields at Bougainville were completed, this same airforce went to work on Rabaul, which had been restocked with planes from Truk.

Halsey's experts figured it would require at least four months to eliminate Rabaul's air strength and make it permanently untenable for shipping. It was smashed in 80 days.

Many experts have said that when the history of the Pacific war is written, Halsey's air force, composed of Army, Navy, Marine Corps and New Zealand units will

Another Suggestion for a Winning Party Platform

1—We are against plans. We believe that there has been too much planning, that the world is over-planned and that wonderful results might follow a decision not to plan a single thing for a long time.

2—We pledge a Plan to Stop Further Plans.

3—We hereby take a definite stand against promises to the people of the United States and to the world in general. It is our conviction that promises have been made so lightly, so frequently and on such large scales during the last decade that the very word "promise" has lost the force of its old-time meaning.

4—We believe that the business of promising everybody everything has not only undermined confidence in promises, but has reached a point where it is possible to scare a man (or a politician) to death by simply beginning a sentence with "I promise you . . ."

5—We are for a Moratorium on Experiments. We hold that while experimenting is a good thing up to a point, the point has been reached. We pledge the party to a four-term moratorium on anything faintly resembling an experiment with our social, political, financial or economic life.

6—We pledge the party to a Fight to the Death against questionnaires. It is our belief that the questionnaire evil has been carried to such extremes that when a business man or a letter carrier approaching the usefulness limit today is ruined.

7—We stand firmly for the return of the office of the presidency to the old-time state of unimportance, and promise that if elected our candidate for the job will speak only when spoken to, keep away from the microphone, develop resistance powers against newsreel photographers and remember that he is merely the figure-head of state.

8—We are against radio advertising in general and most commercials.

9—We favor permitting the owners and operators of American industries to operate them.

10—We promise not to use American soldiers to carry industrialists from their offices in labor disputes and agree to escort them out the front or back door quietly and without the co-operation of camera men.

11—We think enough is being deducted from pay envelopes every week for all kinds of Federal programs, taxes, subscriptions, dues, etc., and we solemnly promise to junk any new proposition that will cost another dime. The security situation has reached a point where people are beginning to demand security from security.

• • •

12—We are for the repeal of prohibition. After recent attempts to get a glass of beer or a drink of rye, gin or Scotch in America and still have enough money left to pay the grocery bill, we think prohibition has gone far enough.

13—We are opposed to any more power for anybody anywhere. Its too much power that has put us where we are.

Song for Japan

Those who from
The battle race
Lose their ships,
But keep their "face"

AN attorney-general has ruled that whiskey may be sold only at drug stores. At these they're on sale everywhere except in coal and wood yards.

Few things seem to us to contribute less to the national confidence than the expressions on the faces in newspaper pictures of the delegates shown leaving for party conventions.

Some how or other, we still can't understand how a man like Tom Dewey can be an arch foe of rackets and still go into politics.

* * *

And it must jar a racket buster's sensibilities to hear the voices breaking into "The Gang's All Here."

Mayor LaGuardia denounces people who use trains for vacations this summer, and we agree with him. But we warn him we will be pretty sore if we find him galavanting around to all political meetings or Indian adoptions.

We would like to see a lie detector set up at any political convention during the platform making. It would blow up even if air-cooled.

The News Today

By Truman Twill

There is no news worth mentioning. The political parties are picking the men and platform for running the world's most important affairs for the next four years, but they do that every four years.

The vernal equinox has just happened, but it doesn't amount to much. All you do is fix it so the earth, instead of whirling around at an angle to the sun, just whirls around at an angle so the days are longer than the nights on one half and the nights are longer than the days on the other half.

The Russians are on the move and every time they capture seven villages and towns, shoot down seven airplanes and tanks and knock off a few Germans, but they've been doing that so long no one can be expected to run a fever every time they do it some more.

The Americans, of course, have just moved into a place called Chairboorg, or Sharbourg, depending on what radio station you are listening to, but everybody expected they would do that whenever they got around to it. Everybody else is, except a lot of German generals who padded their padded uniforms that the tricks of the century couldn't be pulled.

The English have pulled themselves together and are systematically blasting the stuffings out of France in the general direction of Paris. The French are systematically pulling them apart and blasting the stuffings out of everything in the general direction of everywhere, but that hardly comes under the head of news. It's just part of the invasion of France, and that isn't news any more.

Hollywood, where some of the most beautiful women on earth are always getting married to some of the most beautiful men, continues to be the scene of just as much marital strife as any of the other places where women are sorry they wished they had married someone with a better looking, but that's all old stuff. Everybody knows about Hollywood.

The country is raising another loan. You can remember how many billions, when everybody must cough up another few bucks but that sort of thing goes on all the time and what is money, after all, but just a few figures that people take for granted because they can't understand them?

This, that and the other thing keep happening at the rate of one a minute all over the world. High explosives are being shot off by the ton every second; millions of men are locked in mortal combat; the shape of things to come for generations to come is being decided, but the news today is quiet.

Business Principles, Clean Politics Bricker's Formula

EWIN B. GREENWALD

...S. O., June 29—John ... three times governor, ... was nominated yes... the vice presidency, ...losophy of government: "Government must be ... to the people; and the ... politics, the better the ...

...way to run a govern... ...ys, is to organize it ...usiness principles, and ... take its course.

...urse in Ohio entailed ...ther things lopping off ... of state employes while ...financial situation rose ...from a $40,000,000 deficit when he took office in 1939 to a $75,000,000 surplus last January.

Bricker is a very determined man of 50. He is, in fact, spoken of by his friends as often arbitrary and occasionally bull-headed, but the tall white-haired governor smiles and says this is not true. He says he has an open mind until that moment when it is made up and then he goes forward unchangeably.

Born In Log Cabin

Handsome, better than six feet tall and weighing a bit over 200, Bricker has that traditional but rare present day background of American politics—he was born in a log cabin.

There has been nothing spectacular about his rise from a farm in nearby Madison county. He has, seemingly, followed a precise pattern of endeavor, moving up with constancy.

Bricker was born with a twin sister, Ella, on Sept. 6, 1893, to the Lemuel Spencer Brickers near Mount Sterling in central Ohio. He attended a township school, went to high school in Mount Sterling, and then on to Ohio State university. He got his bachelor of arts degree in 1916, entered law college and passed the state bar examination a year later.

In college, he was catcher on the baseball team, president of the Y. M. C. A., president of his class and captain of the debating team. His figure still is athletic and he likes to golf and fish.

The World war interrupted his study and he joined the army as a chaplain, but the war ended before he went overseas. During his gubernatorial campaigns, his opponents charged he tried to dodge active service by becoming a chaplain, but Bricker pointed to a medical record showing he was rejected for combat service because of a slow heart beat. He said he tried to enlist in both the army and the navy.

Governor Since 1938

He married Harriet Day of Urbana, O., and, after the war, finished school and became city attorney of Grandview Heights, a Columbus suburb. In 1923 he was named as assistant Ohio attorney general, but quit after four years to resume private law practice. In 1929, he was named a member of the state utilities commission and three years later was elected attorney general, then won a second term in 1938. He lost his bid for the governorship in 1936, but came back to win in 1938 and has been there since.

He and Mrs. Bricker have one son, Jack, 13.

Bricker's father was of German descent, his mother Scotch-Irish.

de Gaulle. That being the case, then the civil administration of liberated territory can be placed nowhere else but under the direction of the committee—working, as it is now working in Normandy, in close and friendly cooperation with the Allied commander.

Avoid Quarrels

A wise man has said that we must not open a quarrel between the present and the past, lest the future be imperiled. If we take that injunction to heart in Washington, in Algiers, and in London, we can still hope to raise the political relations of France, Britain and America to a plane which is worthy of the heroison and the grandeur of their combined action.

We can do away with the brooding and envenomed suspicions, the smears and the slanders, which are a disgrace to our common cause. We can do away with them, and we can then go forward together through France into Germany. For if we can work in harmony where the danger is greatest, it is unbelievable that we should not be able to agree in the security of Washington and of Algiers.

Let the pedants and the metaphysicians argue whether the authority which directs the French resistance and administers liberated territory is or is not a recognized provisional government. If it is not, then it is something more important, whatever we choose to call it and whatever it chooses to call itself. It is a great historical force; it is, as Mr. Churchill has said, the fourth greatest power in arms against the enemy.

The Future Goal

We cannot afford to go on quarreling with this power, or it with us, nor can we afford to become more and more estranged. It is a condition and not a theory that we are dealing with.

Having found that we can agree in practice even though we could not agree in theory, let us turn our attention from the transient issues to the gerat relations of France, Britain and America.

What is it that we want of one another, and must have, not only now but in the years to come? We want to make sure that never again shall we become so separated that we can be mortally threatened and defeated one by one.

We know now from two bitter wars of this century that France, Britain and America, the three leading powers facing the North Atlantic, have a common fate and will, no matter what they think they intend to do in time of peace, find themselves allies in any great war where the survival of any one of them is at issue.

That is the rock upon which Anglo-French-American relations have henceforth to be established. That is the master principle which must guide each of them in its dealings with the others. If we have the insight to recognize this principle and the wisdom to adhere to it, no problem is insoluble among us, no dispute is irreconcilable.

Former Fire Fighter, 72, Carries on in New Job

By The United Press

BUFFALO — Richard Brown, 72-year-old veteran of 40 years service with the Buffalo fire department, who retired three years ago, is back in the fire-fighting business again, this time as a member of the 30-man company at the Curtiss-Wright Corp. plant here.

Sun-bronzed and nimble despite his age, Brown has accepted a job as instructor and observer with the airplane company.

"When I first took the job, I thought it would give me just enough work to keep me from getting stale, but I found that the company really has a definite organization, with equipment and weather forecasting into two or three years experienced men equal to, if not better than, those in many towns and cities."

While active as a city fireman, Brown was once buried under a collapsing building, but escaped serious injury. On another occasion he found himself frozen fast to a ladder while fighting a stubborn blaze.

The English House of Lords has a red-carpeted carpet marking the bar to where a member may stand when addressing the gathering, and it is believed the carpet is set in the days when men carried swords so that a safe distance would be allowed in case of altercations.

Scientists say that the war has compressed 50 years of normal development in the technique of weather forecasting into two or

NEWS FROM OUR BOYS

Cpl. Arlis Wasserbeck spent a few days' furlough with relatives and friends near Richwood. He left Monday to return to Camp Haan, Calif.

• • •

Staff Sgt. Wilbur N. Wiltred is now stationed somewhere in France, according to word received by his mother, Mrs. Orpha Wiltred of 641 East Church street.

• • •

Pfc. Joe Welsh returned Monday to Ladd Field, Alaska, after spending a 15-day furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Welsh of 392 South Vine street.

• • •

Second Lieut. Ralph R Kemmerly, son of Ralph Kemmerly of 190 North Seffner avenue, has recently arrived at Rosecrans Field, a base of the Ferrying Division, Air Transport Command, near St. Joseph, Mo., according to word from the field. He is at the Missouri base for an advanced pilot training course. Lieut. Kemmerly enlisted in the Army in April, 1942, and was commissioned at Eagle Pass, Tex., in May, 1943. Before entering the service he was employed by the Marion Steam Shovel Co. He is married and his wife lives at 148 Latourette street. He has a brother, Robert E. Kemmerly, serving with the United States Navy.

• • •

Mrs. John Rife of near Marion received a dozen roses from her husband in remembrance of their eighth wedding anniversary. Mr. Rife, a machinist's mate first class with the Seabees, is stationed in the South Pacific.

• • •

Pvt. Dale C. White has arrived in England, according to word received by his cousin, Carroll Pickering of south of Marion.

• • •

• • •

Max Richard Sechrist will soon complete 16 weeks of training in electrical work at the Naval Training School, Morehead State Teachers College, Morehead, Ky., according to word from the college.

Before entering the service he was a teacher at Central Junior High school and a leader of boys' groups at the Y. M. C. A. He graduated from Ohio University in 1940.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Harrison Sechrist of 605 Windsor street and nephew of Mrs. Marjorie Sechrist of south Prospect street. He is expected home on a short furlough after his graduation.

TWO FROM MARION ON NEW LIST OF WOUNDED

Pfc. Hayward Hay, Pfc Charles Kannel Among Casualties.

Two Marion men, Pfc Hayward Hay and Pfc. Charles H. Kannel were among Ohioans wounded in action according to an Associated Press report of a war department casualty list made public today.

An account of Pfc Kannel being wounded in Italy on May 14 was printed in The Star on June 6 just after the word had been received by his mother, Mrs Lulu Kannel of 1022 Bennett street.

Since that time the family has had a letter from the adjutant general's office saying that Pfc Kannell's condition was improved. Prior to his induction 18 months ago, he was employed at the Marion Steam Shovel Co.

Pfc. Hayward Hay, son of Mrs Emily Hay of Richwood, was wounded May 14 in Italy and word was received here June 3.

The telegram stated that he had been "critically injured" while serving with the infantry.

Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Gilliam of 132 Pies avenue, are a step-brother and sister-in-law of Pfc. Hay. Mrs. Hay, mother of Pfc. Hay lived on Pies avenue last until her recent move to Richwood. A letter from the adjutant general's office informed her that Pfc. Hay was confined to a hospital and was improving. A few days later the family received the Purple Heart, awarded to the young man with a letter saying that they could be proud of the young man's courage and actions in line of duty.

Pfc. Hay was living in West Mansfield at the time of his induction in 1942 and was employed at the Scioto Ordnance Plant.

Remembers Dewey As Smartest Kid in High School

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, June 29 — The Republican party has nominated for president of the United States a man remembered by his one-time high school principal as by all odds the smartest kid in school, but who admitted was reasoned to expel him because he couldn't get along with his classmates.

From then on he really made an effort to influence people to like him, and I would say he succeeded," reminisced C. A. Tuck, former principal of the Owosso, Mich., high school from which Thomas E. Dewey was graduated in 1918.

Now principal of East Cleveland's East Technical high school, Tuck has seen about 13,000 students graduated from high school, and classifies Dewey, former pupil and present friend, as "the standout among them in every way."

The governor of New York, he added, "always seemed to do everything right, but he was so egoistical—and understandably so—that none of his classmates liked him."

From a heart-to-heart talk about this problem in Tuck's office during his senior year, Dewey and the educator developed a lasting friendship.

Remembering Dewey's debating and singing abilities—he was Michigan's champion high school debater and once considered a career in opera, Tuck also recalled his knack for business.

"Tom took the Owosso agency for the Saturday Evening Post and soon was a full-time manager and had about 10 other kids doing the actual selling."

ONCE OVER LIGHTLY—Just to make sure that everything works out well, Sergt. E. P. Rutta (seated), of Chicago jokingly aims his pistol at barber" Cpl. James Pierman Mamaroneck, N. Y., as the latter experiments on him with a German razor found in a captured French town.

MRS. EMMA A. BIERLY DIES AT FINDLAY HOME

Formerly Resided in Marion; Funeral Services Today.

Mrs. Emma A. Bierly, 78, mother of Mrs. Fred C. Cory of 810 South Prospect street, died of uremic poisoning Tuesday at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Leon A. Ward in Findlay. She was well known in Marion, having resided at the Cory home a part of the time.

Funeral services were held at 1:30 p. m. today at the Herrold funeral home in Fostoria, followed by burial in Fountain cemetery in that city.

Mrs. Bierly was a native of Brompton, Lincolnshire, England. Her marriage to A. Alfred Bierly took place March 17, 1891, at Wayne, O.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Ward and Mrs. Cory, and a son, Walter C. Bierly of Toledo, and three grandchildren, Fred Cory Jr. and Marilyn Jean Cory of Marion, and Richard C. Ward of Findlay. Three sisters, Mrs. Irving Jones and Mrs. Rebecca Hurst of Clyde and Mrs. Jeanette Davis of Willard, and one brother, James Turner of Toledo also survive.

Alexandria, Egypt, became a naval base more than 2,200 years ago, when Alexander the Great founded it to aid in his campaign against Persia.

Natural hot water from many of Iceland's volcanic springs is piped to provide heat for office buildings, homes and public swimming pools.

UNCLE SAM NEEDS IT NOW... YOU'LL NEED IT LATER

THE crucial hour is at hand . . .

Right now, Uncle Sam needs the help of every fighting American both at home and abroad—more than at any time since the war started.

The boys in uniform are doing O.K. Ask Adolph and Tojo! Workers in our industrial plants are turning out the planes and guns and tanks on schedule. Farmers and ranchers are breaking records in food production, despite handicaps.

But when it comes to buying War Bonds to pay for all this, we've got a job to do—the biggest job of its kind in all our history.

Uncle Sam can't go on supplying our fighting men with the tools they need and must have to win this war unless the money is there to pay for it. The money must come from the people—from YOU. And because war costs are mounting higher than ever before, we must buy MORE BONDS than ever before.

There'll be a Victory Volunteer at your door during the 5th War Loan . . . a neighbor who is taking time from his work to help Uncle Sam raise the money needed to finance this war. Don't turn him down. Don't ask him to come back some other time. Don't . . . of all things . . . tell him you can't afford more Bonds. Make up your mind now that you're going to BUY MORE THAN BEFORE . . . Uncle Sam is depending on our boys over there and they're not letting him down. We at home have the same responsibility! BUY MORE THAN BEFORE!

AND HERE ARE 5 EXTRA REASONS FOR BUYING MORE BONDS IN THE 5th!

1. War Bonds are the best, the safest investment in the world!
2. War Bonds return you $4 for every $3 in 10 years.
3. War Bonds will assure the funds to replace worn-out farm equipment, machinery, and buildings.
4. War Bonds will help win the Peace by increasing purchasing power after the war.
5. War Bonds mean education for your children, security for you, funds for retirement.

be credited with one of the great aerial victories of all time for its job on Rabaul. It broke the first big bastion of Japan's outer perimeter and left Truk open to attack.

With Bougainville secured, Rabaul's air strength tottering and control of the sea absolute, Halsey promptly mopped up the remaining enemy forces on Buka, Bougainville, Shortlands or Choiseul.

He occupied Green islands north of Buka and built more airfields. The occupation isolated the Buka-North Bougainville Japanese, flanked Rabaul and put fighters and low-level bombers within reach of Kavieng—next big stronghold.

The Rabaul air reduction was repeated at Kavieng. This took only a few days since most of Kavieng's strength had been diverted to the desperate fight to save Rabaul.

Two destroyer divisions helped immeasurably by boldly sailing into the range of Kavieng's shore batteries and heavily shelling the area, sinking several ships. Cruiser and destroyer squadrons sank ships attempting to evacuate key personnel from Kavieng-Rabaul and other ships trying to run the blockade with supplies.

These actions left between 50,000 and 70,000 Japanese on New Britain and Kavieng twiddling their thumbs.

Gen. MacArthur, in complimenting the South Pacific forces, has been quoted as saying:

"The Bougainville campaign will be studied in war colleges long after this war is over."

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN

Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills

Pennsylvania Wac Serves Old Briton Church As Organist

By International News Service

BOMBER DIVISION, Somewhere in England—One of England's most dignified old churches is part and parcel of the grounds now used for the headquarters of one of our heavy bomber divisions.

The church organist is one of our Waes, Pfc. Olive Spencer, and the rector of the church believes she is the first American girl to receive the appointment of church organist in an Anglican church.

Lost Heart to Organ

As a little girl Olive studied piano with the church organist in her home-town, Aliquippa, Pa. When she was twelve she lost her heart to the great church organ and in time became the organist of All Saints Episcopal church.

In her working hours Miss Spencer works on the Operations Switchboard, a job that calls for quick thinking and great patience. In her hours off she is in the old stone church practicing at the organ which she plays for the regular services and for weddings and funerals.

Played On Easter Sunday

The former organist was an RAF boy, who has been transferred from this district. The rector advertised for a new organist and through the Division Chaplain, Olive had a "hearing."

She played on Easter Sunday. The church was crowded with its own villagers, Waes, USAAFels, WAAF, and RAF.

Miss Spencer, of course, was in uniform. She played Gellman's Gothic Suite. It has taken her some time to get used to the English manner of chanting Psalms. At home they "speak" them.

But there is a choir practice during the week, and the American organist and the British voice is working into a fine religious combined operation.

Any Wac will understand that Pfc. Spencer is delighted that the post carres an income of £50 a year...."more," she says, "than I earned at home as church organist. Naturally, the big thrill is having the unusual appointment and the thrill to play a fine organ."

At the switchboard Olive has had to do a little mental adjusting. At home she worked for the Bell Telephone Co., where "through" meant the conversation was over and not just beginning, and where a steady ringing meant no answer instead of approaching success, and operators did not break in and inform you, "Please say Goodbye."

This insistence on breaking up a conversation is due to the new regulation on the length of calls which has about destroyed coherent conversation.

The possibility of the time being up quickly has caused people to say hello and begin the conversation, "Meet me at six," hanging up without further details as to name and address.

7,991,450 NEW BIBLES

CINCINNATI, O.—The American Bible society has statistics to prove that its product is still popular. In 1943 the non-profit society recorded its greatest volume of business in its 128-year history. It sold or gave away 7,991,450 Bibles. Of this number, 2,645,789 were given to members of the armed forces, while 50,000 were put on life rafts that men adrift on the seas might read them. George Bruce Cameron, local representative of the society, looks forward to an even busier time in the postwar era, for he says it will take years to catch up with Europe's depleted Bible supply. The society has set up a Bible press in Sweden, where it will print Bibles in the various languages of the oppressed people of Europe.

Yap Island Is Touch of Past

Japanese Base Recently Hit by Task Force; 4,000 Natives Live There.

By International News Service

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Japanese Yap, western Carolines island struck by the same task force that recently smashed Palau, today is one of the strangest places reached by the war. The native, with no written language, live a sort of pre-Egyptian life in the midst of a super-modern Japanese modernity complete with battleships, radio towers and village shops of corrugated tin.

Yap was important before and during the first World war, when German cables reached from Yap to Guam, to Shanghai and to the Netherlands East Indies. In 1913 a radio station added to Yap's importance of western Pacific communications. Japanese troops took over Tsingtao island in October, 1914.

Wilson Saw Importance

President Wilson strongly urged Yap's internationalization after World war I, but secret agreements between Japan and European nations gave the Nipponese the island along with all the Carolines, Marianas, and Marshalls.

Perhaps Yap is most famous for its stone money, huge discs of calcite or reef limestone measuring up to 12 feet in diameter. Use of this money marks Yap Islanders as one step this side of barter economy, but its cumbersome size and immense value has always hindered casual transactions and change-making.

The giant millstones have actual value, as the outsider discovers when he tries to buy one. The Yap "penny," a wheel only a foot in diameter, is worth the equivalent of $75. The 12-foot variety is priceless. To the natives, this value stems from the fact that the rock from which the money is quarried is not found on Yap. The huge wheels were transported from Palau, 270 miles southwest, and from Guam, 525 miles northwest on flimsy Kanawa outrigger canoes.

Four Volcanic Islands

Yap consists of four main volcanic islands separated by canal-width channels and surrounded closely by a coral reef, says the National Geographic Society. The whole is 18 miles long by 8 miles wide, including the reef. Dry land adds up to only 30 square miles. "Yap" means "the land," for to the natives it was the only land (or at least the most important) in the world.

The only harbor, Tomil, is of no great military value; and landings would be difficult due to the reef. Interior plateaus could support great airdromes. The island is supplied with 118 miles of paved paths through the jungle—roads built by the ancient ancestors of the present dying race. Most native requirements grow on trees or in small vegetable patches tended by women. Occasional typhoons level everything on the island.

Customs and characteristics of the islanders reflect life as it must have been in the late Stone Age. The most important male article of clothing is an ornamental comb worn in the hair, its length denoting the nobility of the wearer. Children belong to the community, often go to live with another family at an early age. Bachelor clubs, for married and unmarried men, dot the island. These clubs are housed in high-gable "failus" that are nine-tenths roof—the island's most distinctive architecture.

YANK CHARMS THE MADEMOISELLES—The way to a woman's heart in this instance is a pair of binoculars. Corp. Harold Myers, Lancaster, Pa., holds his glasses for three little triplet sisters he met on the outskirts of Cherbourg as they watch the "fireworks" in the distance made by a Yank artillery barrage.

FULL TIME ARBITER ASKED AT TIMKEN

By The Associated Press

CANTON, O., June 29—Striking CIO unionists at the Timken Roller Bearing Co.'s bearing division today called upon the national war labor board to appoint a permanent arbitrator to handle company-union disputes because of "a complete breakdown in labor relations."

Officials of the United Steelworkers of America issued the following statement after a mass meeting yesterday:

"After recurring protest stoppages in the Timken plants and continuous appeals to the appropriate government agencies to intercede, the inevitable has taken place—a complete breakdown in labor relations.

"It is quite evident after a meeting of three hours' duration, that it was the expressed unanimous opinion that the only solution to the problem is for the national war labor board to now resume direction of labor relations in Timken properties through the appointment of a permanent arbitrator."

President Finas Reynolds of the union local said the workers left their jobs yesterday because the company refused to allow them to attend a special union meeting.

The regional war labor board at Cleveland issued a back-to-work order and advised the unionists that a scheduled July 5 hearing on grievances would be postponed unless full production is restored.

A company spokesman reported 5,483 workers in the bearing division had walked out.

Safety Campaign Cuts Wichita Toll 53 Per Cent

By The United Press

CHICAGO — Population of Wichita, Kan., has almost doubled during the war, but traffic accidents have been reduced 53 per cent since 1940 and in 1943 the city went 197 consecutive days without a traffic fatality says the International Association of Chiefs of Police.

Press, radio, theaters, schools, and traffic courts have been utilized in a safety education program which began in 1941. Large color posters preach safety in buses, factories, schools and buildings, and are changed weekly. Signs bearing brief safety messages are installed at strategic intersections, and a large safety sign is a permanent fixture at the municipal stadium.

A police car equipped with a loud speaker gives a courteous safety lecture to pedestrians or motorists it catches disobeying the regulations.

A safety sound-movie short is shown on every theater program, and safety movies are shown in schools and before clubs. School traffic courts, talks by policemen and safety awards are other features of the campaign.

MAN HEADS P.-T. A.

WICHITA, Kan. — In these times, it was bound to happen! A man was elected president of the Parent-Teacher association at Franklin school here recently. He is S. G. Thurman—only man in the city ever to hold the office. Mrs. H. D. Fugate, president of the P.-T. A. council, says she knows of only one other man in the state to be a P.-T. A. president.

Mrs. J. D. Moore entertained members of the Unity Bible class of Wesley Methodist church in her home at 451 Oliney avenue Tuesday night.

Twenty-five dollars was pledged to the coal fund of the church. Mrs. Fred Upton, teacher of the class, gave the Bible study. Rev. H. M. McAdow offered the prayer and gave an informal talk.

Merwyn Mosher played several selections on the electric guitar. Mrs. Nellie Phelps gave a reading. Refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. Eugene Phillips, Mrs. Lloyd Mosher, Mrs. George Keefer, Mrs. Ray Lehman, Mrs. M. E. Kates and Mrs. Phelps. Guests were Rev. and Mrs. McAdow, Mrs. Harold Kates and Mrs. Ruby Shoup.

The Clionian club closed its season Tuesday evening with a picnic and installation of officers for next season at the home of Mrs. William Guy on the Columbus-Delaware road. Mrs. B. H. Buettin was installed as president; Mrs. C. R. Pennuston, vice president; Mrs. R. K. Nevell, secretary; Mrs. Clarence Sanden, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Albert May, treasurer. Mrs. Harold Bracy conducted installation.

Arrangements for the picnic were in charge of the social committee headed by Mrs. Marion Cheney and including Mrs. W. E. Goldensteve, Mrs. C. W. Mellette, Mrs. W. J. Gorton and Mrs. Harry Smith. A donation of $5 was voted to fill Red Cross Navy kit bags. Mrs. Pennuston, program chairman, announced as the theme of study for next season "The Rainbow Comes Down in Ohio." Mrs. G. B. Hewetson and Mrs. Mellette gave readings and games and contests were played. Guests were Mrs. John Jacoby of Oil City, Pa., Mrs. L. E. Pickerner, Mrs. Richard Rade, Miss Mona Bracy and Miss Marilyn Guy.

A basket dinner was held at Lincoln park Sunday in honor of Cpl. and Mrs. Darrell B. Collins who are here on a 18-day furlough from Tampa, Fla., where he is stationed. They are visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Collins of north of Marion and Mr. and Mrs. George Manaffy of the Edison pike.

Mrs. Marge Cushman entertained the Three G's club Tuesday evening at her home on South State street. Contest prizes were won by Mrs. Mary Catherine Haycook, Mrs. Grace Lehner, Mrs. Norman Carder, Mrs. Wilma Clarke and Mrs. Ruth McIntire. Mrs. McIntire also won the guessing box.

Mrs. Clifford Phillians was a guest when Mrs. Robert Porter entertained the T. W. M. club Tuesday evening at her home on Oliney avenue. Awards were won by Mrs. Maynard Snyder and Mrs. Stanley Thompson. Mrs. Richard Clevenger was consoled. Plans were made for a picnic July 11 at Crystal Lake.

SCHOOL TEACHERS JIVE

Miss Lucille Slob, Walter J. Bender Exchange Vows

MISS LUCILLE SLOB, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Slob of 180 East Farming street, and Walter J. Bender, son of Edward Bender of Waldo, were united in marriage Sunday at 2:30 p. m. The single ring ceremony was performed at the parsonage of the Prospect Street Methodist church by Rev. Henry Maag.

The bride wore an aqua street length dress with white accessories. Her corsage was of red roses and babybreath. Miss Anna Slob, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and was costumed in a light blue suit with matching accessories.

Ralph Bender of Canal Winchester, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man.

Following the ceremony a dinner was served at the home of the bridegroom for the bridal party and their immediate families. The bride's table was centered with a wedding cake and lighted with candles in her colors of pink and blue. Serving were the bridegroom's sisters, Misses Marie and Louise Bender.

The former Miss Slob is a graduate of Harding High school and was formerly employed at Kresge's Dollar store. Mr. Bender graduated from Waldo High school and is engaged in farming. They will make their home with Mr. Bender's father.

FALSE ALARM
By International News Service

NEW YORK—Because her husband had threatened to beat her and all neighborhood stores were closed at 4:55 in the morning, Mrs. Jacqueline Hawkins, of The Bronx, pulled a fire alarm. Arrested, she was fined $25, which she paid. The usual fine, the judge told her, was $50 but under the circumstances he was inclined to be lenient. The husband did not appear in court.

Gas Board Revokes Sheriff's A and C Books

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., June 29—The Linden ration board announced today following a public hearing that it had suspended for four months A and C gasoline books issued for Sheriff Jacob E. Sandusky's private automobile.

The board acted last night after receiving from the sheriff a statement in which it said he admitted using his car to drive to Arizona to see his son commissioned an air force officer. The board rules Sandusky used gasoline illegally.

Churches Draft Aid To Services

Plan To Help Service Men in Readjustment Period.

BY RICHARD SHANER
International News Service
Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK — One of the most important problems of the post-war days will be the readjustment of returning service men, and the church must be prepared to assume its full share of responsibility in this connection, according to the Rev. Seward Hiltner, executive secretary of the Commission on Religion and Health of the Federal Council of Churches.

"Before the church does any program planning to meet the needs of the returning service men, however," the clergyman said, "it should have a thorough understanding of their specific attitudes and problems."

Uniform Plan Urged

The commission, in collaboration with the Christian Commission on Camp and Defense Communities, is preparing the way for the churches with a series of pamphlets on the problem of the church and returning service personnel.

Designed to help church people gain this understanding, the initial pamphlet, subtitled "Attitudes and Problems," was released recently. It recommends a coordinated church plan to meet various phases of the rehabilitation program. The plan would include the education of public opinion through the pulpit, platform and study groups, as well as education for the clergy.

Problems Already at Hand

Other pamphlets in the series, to be published in the near future, deal with government plans, church programs and religious sources.

The first booklet includes articles by the Rev. Otis R. Rice, chairman of the Commission on Religion and Health; Dr. Alexander Reid Martin, psychiatrist; Dr. Florence Powdermaker, a surgeon in the United States Public health service; Dr. Gotthard Booth, psychiatrist; Dr. Harry Bone, consulting psychologist, and Dr. Hiltner.

In a foreword to the booklet, Dr. Willam Barrow Pugh, chairman of the General Commission on Army and Navy chaplains and the service men's Christian League, pointed out that the problems of the returning service men already is at hand.

Thousands Now Returning

Nearly one hundred thousand men are regaining their civilian status monthly, he said, adding:

"None of the problems confronting the church in relation to these men is more basic than the need to understand what their reactions will be when they finally come home."

Among the resources the church should provide, Dr. Rice said, are church-sponsored clubs for returning service men; greatly increased pastoral counseling services, and an adequate chaplaincy service to men in veterans' hospitals.

INCONSIDERATE GI'S

By International News Service

WASHINGTON — Gen. George C. Marshall, U. S. army chief of staff, went right ahead with invasion plans today despite receipt of a letter from a woman living in a Washington hotel. "Inconsiderate soldiers," she wrote, slammed doors every morning at 5, awakened her two hours before rising time.

PRACTICAL TRACK LAYING

CAMP ELLIS, Ill.—(UP)—Camp Ellis engineers learning track-laying as part of their overseas training replaced three miles of track of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad between Rushville and Vermont, Ill., in three weeks. While at work they lived in railroad bunk cars, 10 to a sleeper, said Col. John S. Sullivan, camp commander.

2 Sons of Marion Woman Reported Missing in Action

Sgt. Robert Veley — Sgt. Richard Veley

A Marion woman's two sons who were reported missing in action within a period of three months are pictured above. Their mother, Mrs. Ruth Veley, lives at 336 East Church street and is employed at the post engineer's office at the Marion Engineer Depot.

Detailed reports of the brothers being listed as missing were published in The Star on April 14 and June 23 when the mother was notified by the war department.

Additional information concerning Richard who was reported missing since participating in action over Italy on March 19 was received Monday by Mrs. Veley. The letter was signed by Major (A.G.D.) E. A. Bradunas, chief of casualty branch of personal affairs and assistant chief of air staff personnel.

The major wrote that further information had been received indicating that Sgt. Veley was a crew member of a B-24 Liberator bomber assigned to a bombardment mission to southeastern Germany on March 19.

While returning from the mission, Sgt. Veley's plane was seen to collide with another plane in the flight and fall into the Adriatic sea. The accident occurred at about 3:15 p. m. off the eastern coast of Italy. He states that one parachute was seen in the area, but prevailing battle conditions prevented further observation by returning crews.

The report that Sgt. Robert Veley was missing since action over Romania on June 5, was received last week. No additional information has been received about him.

Both served as radiomen and gunners on Liberator bombers. They were born in Crabbsville and never lived in Marion. An aunt, Mrs. Ray Bishop lives at 599 Windsor street.

Obeys Mother, Girl Lives While Playmates Drown

By The Associated Press

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., June 29—"Mother told me," 12-year-old Bernadine Adloska sobbed today, "not to play in the water."

Bernadine obeyed, and lived. But it fell to her to break the news that five girl playmates whose mothers also had warned them against the Susquehanna's swift current, had drowned in 10 feet of water.

They were riding on a log near the river's west bank at Exeter, five miles north of here, late yesterday when two of them fell off. Then the log upset, throwing the others into the water.

Before she ran for help Bernadine saw one of the girls, Dolores Gadello, 15, the only one who could swim, try to save the others, but Dolores too sank beneath the choppy surface.

Besides Dolores the victims were Verna Galli, 8, Geraldine Smith, 10, Therese Modletski, 13, and Takla Janiszaks, 10.

WARREN STRATEGY IN CHICAGO REVEALED

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, June 29—California's Gov Earl Warren was the enigma of the 1944 Republican national convention to everyone but himself.

The strapping six-footer could have been the vice presidential nominee, everyone concedes, but he turned it down and John W. Bricker, governor of Ohio, accepted it instead.

Why?

The answer goes back two months, as related today by one of his friends of long standing

The 53-year-old Warren sat across the desk in his California office and revealed his plans for the convention He said he would not in any circumstances accept any place on the ticket, and at that time, there was tremendous pressure to put him on it.

He would not take himself out of the picture unequivocally, however—he would be subject to a "draft"

Here is the way he reasoned it: There were forces for Dewey of New York There were others for Bricker of Ohio. There was stretch and strain otherwise in the party

Warren envisaged himself at the time as the man who could weld all factions but only if he kept his bargaining position.

"I don't want to be vice president," he told this friend. "But I think I can boot in the man who will be"

The day before the nominating session he said, like Sherman long ago, he would not accept if offered Then the machinery functioned which welded Dewey and Bricker into a ticket.

Phony Rubber Detected

By The Associated Press

AKRON, O.—How use of the X-ray to "see through" phony specimens of alleged synthetic rubber saved valuable time in research following Pearl Harbor, is one of the rubber industry's "now it can be told" stories

After sources of natural rubber were cut off from the United States, many inventors came forward with claims of synthetic rubbers. Dr. H. E. Fritz, research director of the B. F. Goodrich company recalls. Some, he said, were "screwball" inventions. Others were downright attempts at fraud.

There are disunctive cell formations in natural rubber and all rubber-like synthetics, Dr. Fritz explained. With the X-ray, the expert could tell whether the material was already known to chemists, or something new that merited investigation.

Timely Tips on Fixture Care Outlined To Help Make Them Last for Duration

There is a lot of talk about the house of tomorrow, but the important thing is to take care of the house of today.

This advice applies particularly to the mechanical equipment, the Bureau points out, and offers the following suggestions on the wartime care of plumbing and heating.

Drains. Plumbers receive more service calls for stopped up drains than any other single complaint. Most drain stoppages could be prevented by (1) the regular use of a good drain pipe solvent, and (2) care in keeping material like grease, lint, hair, coffee grounds, and bits of garbage out of the drain.

Faucets. Leaking faucets are second in service calls. Many leaks are caused by (1) not shutting faucets completely off or (2) by shutting faucets off too hard Faucets handles should be turned firm enough to close the faucet completely yet not hard enough to grind the washer into the seat Dripping faucets are expensive not only because they waste water and fuel used in heating water but because the leaking water will eventually cut the seat of the faucet.

Fixtures. Avoid the use of harsh abrasive cleansers for fixtures. A simple glass test will show if the cleanser is harsh Fixtures have a gloss which is virtually glass. Any cleanser which scratches glass will harm the finish of the fixture Diamonds cut glass Therefore always remove diamond rings when cleaning fixtures If medicine, acids, or fruit juices are spilled on fixtures, rinse off with water immediately

Sink. Don't let garbage stand in the sink Don't draw pots or pans across the enameled drainboard of a sink Don't use an ice pick in the sink without protecting the surface. Don't cut anything on the sink drainboards without protecting the surface

Don't place hot pans on the sink

Bathtub. Always see that the surface of the bathtub is protected when painters or decorators are working in the house If the bathtub is under a window, lay a cloth or newspaper in it when work is being done to the window, screens or shades

Lavatory. Don't place heavy articles such as jars of cold cream in medicine cabinets over lavatories. Many lavatories have been cracked or chipped by jars of cold cream which slipped out of greasy hands.

Water heaters. Avoid excessive temperatures which hasten corrosion and increase scale deposit from hard water. Have thermostat adjusted to prevent temperatures higher than 140 degrees

Controls. Safety controls such as relief valves protect water heaters against damage from explosions It is important that these valves operate freely. Let water run through them at least twice a year to see that they are not corroded and that they will act in an emergency

Motors. Motors on circulators, oil burners, and stokers should be lubricated frequently with grade of oil recommended by manufacturer. Do not oil too freely.

Plans have been made to bring the Pribilof Aleuts back to their foggy native islands this spring and reestablish them in their homes, from which they were evacuated at the time of the Japanese attack on Dutch Harbor. The natives are salted sealers, trained in this work from infancy, and they are needed for the sealing operations which will begin in the Pribilofs in May according to the Fish and Wildlife Service. TOLEDO STREET CARS, BUSES STILL TIED UP

By The Associated Press

TOLEDO, O., June 29 — Mass transportation in this city of 316,000 remained at a standstill today after AFL street car and bus drivers rejected an arbitration proposal and voted to continue their walkout.

City Manager George M. Schoonmaker reported the privately-owned Community Traction Co had approved a proposal for a three-man board of arbitration but that the union membership declined acceptance

The strike was described by President C. I. Sherman of the Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employes as a protest against company refusal to discharge two inspectors. Sherman said "every man working for the company has a complaint of ill treatment" against the two inspectors

Twenty-one lines inside the city are operated by the company. The 850 employes, who walked out yesterday, include drivers, motormen, conductors, maintenance men and shop and garage attendants.

Only buses manned by the union were those serving the Rossford Ordnance Plant and the Packard Motor Car Co. These lines are operated under office of defense transportation permits

Gov. Bricker's Home Folk Wanted Him in Top Position

By The Associated Press

MT STERLING, O., June 29—Ohio's capital prepared a hero's welcome for Gov. John W. Bricker today but this little farming community was disappointed because its most famous native son won only second place on the Republican ticket.

The town's 1,115 residents relished the opportunity to bask in the reflected glory of the vice presidential nominee, but they made no secret of their belief that the G. O. P. national convention could have done better.

Bricker, they felt, should have been given the top spot on the Republican ticket

Nomination of New York's Gov. Thomas E. Dewey for the presidency actually shocked Mt Sterling residents, so confident had they been that Bricker would receive first billing

The Tribune, the town's sole newspaper, stated in today's issue:

"Our John made a brilliant fight for the presidential nomination but had to be satisfied with second place. Mt Sterling is proud of its native son, but its citizens will not be satisfied until they see him occupying the White House."

Editor States Town's Views

White-haired Joan M Brockie, Tribune editor, said simply:

"We feel our John is fitted for the presidency and it is a bitter blow to see him forced to accept anything else."

A. O. Gillivan proprietor of the local hardware store and a close friend of Bricker's, said:

"Of course we're happy about the whole thing, but we still want to see Bicker in the White House."

And Mayor Paul Hildebrant who called himself "a Democrat of sorts," added

"We wanted Bricker to be president so badly it's hard to get used to thinking in lesser terms"

"Anyhow," chimed in Lawyer Arthur D. Simmons, "we'll have a real vice president for once and already he has placed Mt. Sterling on the map."

Excitement, however, began to overtide disappointment as friends of the governor spoke of plans for a celebration

Miss Florence Alkire, one of the town's leaders, said there would be a demonstration in the near future but details probably would await consideration by the governor.

Cousin Is Proud

Talk of celebration brought a glow of pleasure to the eyes of 61-year-old Leslie Bricker, a first cousin of the governor. Leslie's and John's mother were sisters and their fathers were brothers. Leslie, who, as one neighbor put it, is the "dashing image" of Ohio's handsome governor, said:

"We're just common people and this is a great day for us"

Meanwhile, in Columbus a tremendous ovation was planned for the Brickers when their train arrives from Chicago tonight. A brass band will be on hand to greet them and a torchlight parade will escort them to the executive mansion

George Trautman, president of the American Association baseball league, will serve as master of ceremonies

Hitler Shortens Lines in Hope of Stopping Reds

By J. M. ROBERTS, JR.
(Substituting for DeWitt Mackenzie)

The speed of the Red advance through White Russia, with the capture of Minsk apparently only a few days away, supports previous reports that Hitler has withdrawn his major forces to shorter lines back in old Poland—possibly along the Bug river.

Points like Orsha and Mogilev don't fall overnight when the Germans really try to hold them, even before such great power as the Russians are displaying The Berlin radio broadcasting about an elastic defense in the east, without benefit of reserves until the allies have been taken care of in the west, also supports the thought

For a year there have been reports from various sources that the Germans were preparing to stand at the Bug, the "Ribbentrop" border established in 1939, and that if driven back from there a last ditch fight would be made along the Vistula

This would not mean, of course, an uninterrupted Russian march over the 300 miles from their present central positions, or the 100 miles from their westernmost salient at Kowel, to Brest Litovsk. Large German armies already have been beaten or trapped in the present drive They are not all gone. Delay will be attempted at every strong point, principally at Minsk Baranowicze, Bialystok and Brest Litovsk, and there probably will be a tremendous battle for Lwow when the fighting is extended southward.

But, as in Italy, the Germans probably are down to the point where little effort will be made to save territory which obviously cannot be held for long

The comparative nearness of the war's end must be as obvious to Hitler as to anyone If he is to keep going in the hope of some "break" he must gather his weakened forces into a more compact area. The power behind the Russian offensive, the growing allied strength on the shore of France, pressure from the south with every sign that it will be extended, allied air superiority, all have dictated his only course.

Whether even this forced constriction will enable him to carry on through the fall and obtain another winter stalemate is open to question. That he can withstand concerted pressure from the channel to the Mediterranean, from the Baltic to the Danube, is out of the question. He apparently knows he would be knocked out of the war by fall if he even tried it.

ERIE PROVING GROUNDS, LACARNE O. June 29—Capable of out-reaching the highest-flying bombers, a new anti-aircraft giant has been sent by the United States army to clear the skies of enemy planes

Army ordnance experts at this Lake Erie testing grounds today took the wraps from the Mogul, a 120 millimeter anti-aircraft cannon, bigger by far than any other similar armament known

Newsmen saw a demonstration of the 57-ton mobile monster, its remote control apparatus operating with the delicate touch of a fine watch as it spewed destruction at a potential rate of 12 shells a minute

Newest feature of the Mogul is an automatic rammer, which sets a 50-pound shell in the breech, adjusts its fuse and rams home a semi-fixed charge of powder.

Assembled in Grand Rapids, Mich., the gun costs more than $100,000 per unit, according to Col. F. E Rundell, commander of the proving grounds.

Mrs Katharine Kennedy Brown of Dayton was reelected national committeewoman without opposition.

"What's the Use?" Topic at Evangelistic Service

"Looking through the telescope of human research there is nothing in the past and nothing in the present that gives us hope for the future," Dr Bob Jones of Cleveland, Tenn. told the audience who attended the special evangelistic service at the Calvary Evangelical church last night.

Dr. Jones, who is conducting revival service along interdenominational lines and who will preach each night through Sunday, spoke on "What's the Use"' Dr Jones said in part, "Paul said, 'Why should I fight with the beasts at Ephesus if the dead are not raised?' In other words he meant what is the use if there is nothing to our faith?

"Let's look through God's telescope of Revelation which is His Word We see an open tomb and a risen Christ There is a light burning in a tomb He lighted that tomb when He rose from the dead. In the present we see this Christ who was raised from the dead sitting at God's right hand reigning We turn the telescope to the future and we see graves open, but men are not going in, they are coming out. So we say there is something to life. We lift our drooping heads and 'keep on keeping on'"

"Banned in Boston" Usually Serves As Harbinger of a Best-Seller

By The United Press

BOSTON—By-line of success in the literary world is the righteous "Banned in Boston,' for nothing stimulates sales quite so much as Boston's refusal to countenance them.

When "All Quiet on the Western Front," by Erich Maria Remarque was banned in 1929 for obscenity, it became the Book-of-the-Month Club selection When "An American Tragedy" by Theodore Dreiser was condemned in 1930 it became required English reading for Harvard students across the Charles River.

Running true to form is the current "Strange Fruit." This forbidden fruit to staid Bostonians is now on the nation's best-seller list placing among the first three in such cities as New York, Washington Baltimore and Cleveland.

Ruled Obscene

The novel by Lillian Smith, termed a very moving and extraordinary one" by Mrs Franklin D. Roosevelt, was withdrawn from local book stores in mid-March Brought to the courts in a recent test case, it was ruled obscene. An appeal is now pending

Solemn guardian of Boston's literary morals is the Boston Book Merchants' Association. The system is simple. Complaint is lodged with the club—by anyone, be he police commissioner or kindergarten pupil. If the association thinks the book in question is liable to prosecution under the obscenity statutes, it will issue circulars recommending its withdrawal from sale.

In this manner, "The Last Time I Saw Paris' by Elliot Paul, 'What Makes Sammy Run' by Budd Shulberg and "Within the Gates by Sean O'Casey have quietly disappeared from local bookshelves.

But Boston has a long history of righteousness In 1857, "Aurora Leigh' by Elizabeth Barrett Browning was forbidden as "the hysterical indecencies of an erotic mind." In 1891, 'Tess of the D'Urbervilles' by Thomas Hardy was "highly disapproved of," and in 1930 a translation of the Greek dramatist Aristophanes' "Peace' was banned for immorality

At one time, sheet music titled "Love's Balm" was suppressed in the city. The reason The lyrics were by the indelicate John Dryden!

For a long while, typical of censoring from the Athens America consisted of the following deletion for Sunday consumption of the picture "Defender Czestochowa." — "Remove dialogue, '. . . damned'; . . . damn . . .' in part 6;' . . . damn in part 10.

Boston's puritanical taint enveloped at various times Giovanni Boccaccio for the 'Decameron," Voltaire for "Candide," Walt Whitman for "Leaves of Grass," Gabriel D'Annunzio for "The Triumph of Death," Ernest Hemingway for "The Sun Also Rises," Sinclair Lewis for 'Elmer Gantry," Aldous Huxley for 'Point Counter Point," Upton Sinclair for "Oil," Sherwood Anderson for "Dark Laughter," and Eugene O'Neill for 'Strange Interlude."

of the foreign trade plank , at first blush, to be nt, he said, recalling the plank promised an "ade- protective tariff" on com- products designed to as- American standards.

"The essence of the plank is to be found in the latter part," Dewey said. "The party promises that this nation will work with other nations to promote greater trade. This is not inconsistent with the tariff part of the plank."

Questioned closely about his views on post-war foreign policy, Dewey said he did not believe the United States should surrender its "sovereign right to make war" to any international organization.

"The sovereign power to make war is primarily a defensive power on our part," he declared. "We have never fought any offensive war."

"How about the Mexican war?" a reported asked.

"That depends on your interpretation," he said.

The nominee defended state regulation of insurance companies at length, and promised a Negro reporter he would live up to his oath to enforce the 13th and 14th amendments if he is elected.

A reporter cited a passage from Dewey's acceptance speech that said Germany's will to fight again at some future time must be broken. He asked Dewey how he would do it.

"That will develop during the campaign," the nominee responded. "Three different plans have been suggested to me. A lot will depend on when Germany surrenders."

Plans Not Discussed

He did not discuss the "three plans."

Dewey said he was advised his first press conference as presidential nominee, in a packed ball room of the Stevens hotel, "is the largest ever held," and commented:

"I am awe struck."

More than 500 persons—reporters, delegates and just onlookers—were jammed into the conference room.

A woman reporter commented that Dewey's acceptance speech probably was one of the "shortest on record," asking:

"Can we hope that all of your speeches will be as short?"

"You are at liberty to hope," Dewey replied "—and I join in your hope."

When Dewey was asked if he thought the G. O. P. platform ruled out an international police force, he shot back at his questioner:

"What do you mean by an international police force?"

The reporter said he meant a force to which the various nations would contribute troops. Dewey replied:

"If you mean an army with American soldiers, directed by some disembodied spirit, as a world agency, I would say that was ruled out."

In discussing the campaign organization, Dewey made it clear he will consult Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio, the vice presidential candidate, before making final decisions.

He said he had not made any decision yet on a recommendation for chairman of the Republican national committee and would not until after further conferences with Bricker and party leaders.

Dewey said Bricker plans to leave today for Ohio to attend a reception there in his honor and that his consultations with the vice presidential nominee would be by telephone.

"Will Willkie be invited to take part in your strategy conferences?" he was asked.

"So far we have consulted only with members of the national committee, but later there will be consultations with others," Dewey said.

Willie Included

"Does that include Willkie?"

"Certainly."

Dewey also replied "certainly I will" when asked whether he would continue as governor of New York while campaigning for the presidency.

Asked whether he would advocate any modificaiton of the securities-exchange law, Dewey said.

"By and large, I think the SEC one of the best things the present administration has done. As to its administration, the SEC has not done its best to stimulate the flow of capital."

The governor ruled out as "hypothetical" a question whether he would accept a third term as president, if the occasion arose, but stood on his former statement that:

"The third term is destructive of everything good in the American tradition."

Dewey expressed the opinion that federal aid will have to be given to bolster reemployment in the post-war transition period but said he believed the problem must be met chiefly by private enterprise.

He replied affirmatively to a question whether he believed the party platform presumes establishment of a world court after the war.

Asked whether he was "satisfied with the present gasoline ration program," Dewey and asked:

"Do you know anybody woh is?"

From there he arranged to make a short appearance before members of the Republican national committee, meeting in the hotel across the street from his quarters in the Stevens. He scheduled his first news conference since his nomination a short while later.

The Dewey agenda also included a conference with former President Herbert Hoover and other party leaders during the day. He will remain in Chicago tomorrow, probably leaving for Albany sometime Saturday.

As convention crowds headed homeward, all signs pointed toward evolvement of a highly organized and unified drive between now and November.

What dissention there was appeared to melt away when Gov. Bricker of Ohio agreed to become Dewey's running mate, instead of his chief contender for top honors, and accepted the vice presidential nomination.

The two clasped hands on the convention stadium platform and exchanged remarks of mutual admiration and confidence in victory.

Typical of the resulting jubilant comments was that of Senator Clyde Reed of Kansas, who said:

"We've got not only a match for Roosevelt but a master on the platform to carry the fight to him on his own front."

Youth Against Age!

Youth against age was the predominant theme of Dewey's acceptance speech as he set out to follow Franklin D. Roosevelt's trail from the executive mansion in Albany to the White House via the Chicago nominating conventions. Mr. Roosevelt, too, flew to this city to accept the high honor in 1932.

The 42-year-old former racketbuster, in his opening statement to the American electoral jury last night, promised that "next year our government will again have a cabinet of the ablest men and women to be found in America."

"It's members," he declared, "will expect and will receive full delegation of the powers of their office. They will be capable of administering those powers. They will each be experienced in the task to be done and young enough to do it."

The task of achieving a lasting peace, he declared, "is no task to be entrusted to stubborn men, grown old and tired and quarrelsome in office."

"It seems," he declared, "that the great men who founded this nation really knew what they were talking about when they said that three terms were too many."

A middle course between international aloofness and full membership in any world state was advocated by the shaggy-browed 1944 standard bearer on the touchy foreign policy issue.

Point In Agreement

"We are agreed, all of us," he said, "that America will participate with other sovereign nations in a cooperative effort to prevent future wars."

"There are only a very few," he added, "who really believe that America should try to remain aloof from the world. There are only a relatively few who believe it would be practical for America or her allies to renounce all sovereignty and join a superstate."

Senator Robert Taft of Ohio, chairman of the platform committee, told reporters "He stands on the platform 100 per cent."

Wendell L. Willkie, who came from behind to beat Dewey for the nomination in 1940 and who recently criticized the foreign policy plank as "ambiguous," congratulated Dewey and said he has "one of the great opportunities of history."

As his petite brunette wife looked on intently, Dewey first Republican to win the New York governorship in 20 years, made these other points:

1. The first and foremost job is to win the war, and to defeat "once and for all" the German and Japanese will to make war.

2. The present military high command is "doing a superb job" and should be allowed to continue without any civilian interference.

3. The administration now is beset by internal squabbles and feuds—"wrangling, bungling and confusion." In seven pre-war years of "unequalled power and unparalleled spending, the new deal failed utterly to solve" the fundamental problem of providing jobs and opportunity. It has lived in "chattering fear of abundance," specializing in curtailment and restriction."

4. "This must be a land where every man and woman has a fair chance to work and get ahead . . . we Republicans are agreed that full employment shall be a first objective of national policy."

Dewey departed from his prepared speech to the convention to say he is "happy and proud to be associated with my good friend from the state of Ohio, John W. Bricker."

Of the man he beat out for the nomination, then accepted as a running mate, Dewey said:

"Never before have I seen such good statesmanship and good sportsmanship as that displayed by John Bricker here this morning and I am proud to be associated with him."

Guest Night Observed by Club at Prospect

Special to The Star

PROSPECT—Mrs. R. W. Herbster was hostess to the annual guest night of the Prospect Garden club Friday when the members of the LaRue Garden club were guests. Mrs. Milo Gast conducted devotions after which Mrs. Edna Griffith led in group singing with Mrs. Charles Rodman accompanying.

Mrs. Rex Moreland of Centerburg, regional director, spoke on "Flower Shows." Mrs. Charles Rodman played two piano numbers. Miss Lorna Lauer gave two accordion selections.

The hostess served refreshments. Mrs. Milo Gast will be hostess at the July meeting.

• • •

The Missionary society of the Baptist church met Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Mattie Wotring with Mrs. Glenwood Beard as program leader. She was assisted by Mrs. Emery Roberts and Mrs. Belva Beery who gave reports of articles in the missionary magazine. Mrs. Roy Reddick of the Trinity Baptist church in Marion gave a talk.

Mrs. Carl Harmon had charge of devotions and Mrs. Emery Roberts of the quiet hour. Prayers were offered by Mrs. J. A. Farrington and Mrs. William McPherson.

The hostess gave a reading from Edgar Guest and served refreshments. Guests were Mrs. Roy Reddick and Mrs. Kenneth L. Sweeney of Marion and Mrs. Sheppard of Prospect.

• • •

Mrs. Thomas Finefrock was hostess to the Past Time club Wednesday for a potluck dinner. Mrs. Rudolph Stuckey and Mrs. Charles Seehrist were guests. Mrs. Albert Baker and Mrs. John Deeds were initiated.

• • •

June 21 Troup 1, Prospect Girl Scouts held their first outdoor cooking party at Newmans state park. Troup leader Mrs. P. S. Lauer, assistant Miss Mary Jane Thomas, and troup mother Mrs. Harper were present.

Troup 2 met Tuesday evening to clean their new place of meeting, the Township House.

New York City's 900,000 school children and 30,000 teachers are housed in nearly 1,000 buildings.

FINLEYVILLE, Pa.—Six years ago, Mrs. Margaret F. Williams began to collect neckties of celebrities. Now she has 500, among them those of former Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes, the late Sen. William E. Borah, Clarence Darrow, Neville Chamberlain, Heywood Broun, governor of nearly every state and radio and screen celebrities.

Red raspberries are more hardy than the purple or black variety.

A Fine Warm Weather Dish

By BETSY NEWMAN

Did you ever make a cold soup—jellied is the word—to serve for dinner or lunch on a hot day? Why not try it? You could serve it as a salad if you prefer, with mayonnaise, but with crackers it's very good.

MENU

Jellied Vegetable Soup, Crackers, Creamed Potatoes, Buttered Green Beans, Orange Rennet Custard, with Prune Whip, Tea.

Jellied Vegetable Soup No. 1

3 c. tomatoes, 3 bouillon cubes, 1 onion, 1½ tsps. minced parsley or celery leaves, 1 bay leaf, 3 tsps. gelatin, few pepper corns, few sprigs thyme.

Simmer tomatoes, onion, bay leaf and celery with seasonings until quite soft, strain; there should be 3 cups juice. Add minced parsley and bouillon cubes. Soften gelatin in 3 tablespoons cold water and dissolve in hot juice. Season to taste with paprika and salt. This soup will be cloudy.

Jellied Vegetable Soup No. 2

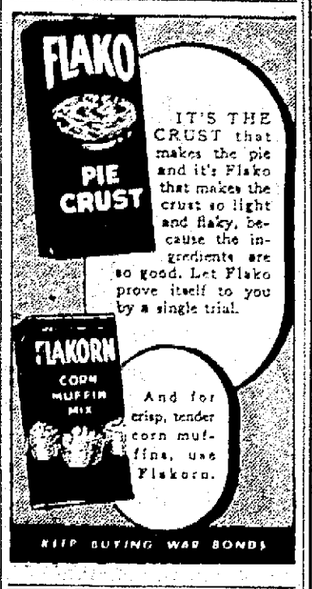
¼ c. potatoes, ¼ c. carrots, ¼ c. cabbage, ½ c. celery, 2 tbsps. parsley, 1 c. strained tomatoes, 1 tbsp. onion, 1 tsp. sugar, salt, ¼ tsp. kitchen bouquet, 1¾ tsps. gelatin.

Dice or chop vegetables and cook in 2½ cups salted water until tender. Add strained tomatoes and seasonings and enough water to make one quart liquid. Season to taste with salt and paprika. Soften gelatin in ¼ cup cold water and dissolve in hot stock. Chill and serve garnished with parsley.

Orange Rennet-Custard with Prune Whip

1 pkg. orange rennet powder, 2 tsps. lemon juice, 1 pt. milk, 1 egg white, ¼ c. sugar, ½ c. prune pulp.

Make orange-rennet custard according to direction on package. Chill in refrigerator. When ready to serve, beat egg white until stiff, add sugar gradually until thoroughly blended; add prune pulp, which is prepared by rubbing cooked prunes through a sieve, and lemon juice. Heap the glasses of rennet-custard with prune whip.



IT'S THE CRUST that makes the pie and it's Flako that makes the crust so light and flaky, because the ingredients are so good. Let Flako prove itself to you by a single trial.

And for crisp, tender corn muffins, use Flakorn.

M-4 Medium Tank

By The Associated Press

A 32-ton, low-silhouette armored vehicle, the M-4 "General Grant" tank once was compared by British Minister of Production Oliver Lyttleton as a "match for the best armor Rommel has."

Carrying a 75-mm gun, a .50

caliber machine gun for defense against enemy aircraft and one or more .30 caliber machine guns, it also is armed with a two-inch mortar for projecting smoke bombs to conceal its movement.

Mounter in a rotating turret, the tank's 75-mm gun fires projectiles weighing approximately 15 pounds at a rate of 20 rounds a minute, at a range of from 1,000 to 3,000 yards.

"T" Gasoline Coupons To Be Replaced July 1

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 29—"T" gasoline coupons marked 2nd qtr" (quarter) will be replaced by coupons bearing the designation "3rd qtr" July 1 through Sept. 30, the office of price administration announced today.

These coupons, used by truckers, taxicabs and other commercial operators, become invalid at the end of each quarter, and "leftovers are not usable," OPA explained.

Special rations which do not expire until after June 30 may be exchanged at local war price and rationing boards for the new coupons.

Middletown Wins by 12 to 4 Score To Stop Marion's Winning Streak

Locals Are Outhit 15 to 7 in Eight Inning Contest.

MIDDLETOWN'S Red Sox put the clamps on what seemed like a victory string for the locals as they pasted them to the tune of 12-4 in eight innings last night at Lincoln park.

It was Ralph Rorie's second win in three starts as he stopped Marion with seven hits in an abbreviated tilt, called in the eighth due to darkness. Stan Ostrowski was the victim for the fourth time in five starts.

The Red Sox scored first in the second inning as Senko grounded, third to first. Dyer walked and was brought home by Titers triple to the wall in left center field.

Marion scored one in the third inning on a walk and two singles by Ostrowski, Carlsen and Morneweg. Then in the sixth Marion scored two more runs with the final tally coming in the seventh. In the sixth Bellamy singled, Broukal was safe on a fielder's choice with Bellamy taking third and home on an error by Clayton. Broukal advanced to third on error by Horie as he threw wild to second. Marchese grounded out, Broukal scoring and Granzeg fanned. Jeski and Carlsen hit singles, advanced on a passed ball with Jeski scoring on Morneweg's hit on error for the final tally.

Middletown's big bats really poured it on in the eighth with two singles, three doubles and a home run. McClean started things by singling to right with Senko safe on a fielder's choice. The pitcher, on the fielder's choice overthrew second and McClean and Senko advanced, Dyer then singled, scoring McClean. Teter drove the only round-tripper of game over the left field wall bringing in Senko and Dyer.

Things didn't stop here, for Kuddes and Heller doubled in quick succession. Rorie grounded out Ostrowski to Jeski. Rando walked and Clayton flied to center, scoring Heller from third. Then McClean, up for his second time in that inning, doubled to left field scoring Rando for their final tally.

In the seventh inning it looked as if Marion might pull another "Frank Merriwell" finish but Barnes' boys knocked that idea out as they slashed Ostrowski all over the lot for seven runs on six hits.

Many loyal Cub boosters missed the faces of two Marion outfielders who were prominent in the lineup heretofore. Virl Minnis, sent here from Jamestown, was recalled, and Warren Blunt formerly Marion's left fielder was released today, Manager Hartley said.

In their place he has Sam Marchese and August Granzeg, outfielder and infielder, respectively, from Lockport, N. Y.

Game Tonight

Tonight Marion plays the second of the three game series with Middletown. J. Hill, suspended Marion burler, due to "sore arm," has been reinstated and will pitch tonight. His record is one win and two losses.

ANYTHING —About— SPORTS

By Charles Elliott

A PLEASANT JOB ENDS

FOR over a year I have had the privilege and good fortune to report athletic activities in and around Marion and to acquaint readers as much as possible with the various individuals who make sports news—players and their bosses, young and old, champions and also rans.

This has been an experience rich in pleasant associations and educational in understanding human nature that any young fellow should and probably would give his eye teeth to undergo.

But as the sages put it, all good things must come to an end. So it must be with my position as sports editor of The Marion Star, at least for the duration of World War II, which still will require some hard fighting and more than a little bloodshed on both sides before we can claim victory as our own.

Saturday, I report to Case School of Applied Science in Cleveland for training in the Navy's V-12 program which prepares high school and college men to assume the duties of commissioned officers.

I'm going to miss daily banging away at this old Royal typewriter with my awkward but adequate two-fingered system. Through the medium of the written word, I have tried to impart to you, the readers of The Star, news and views on sports here and elsewhere. Sometimes I have aired my own views, but more often, or so it seems to me, the views of others more qualified to give opinions on sports.

Sometimes I have taken exception to and criticized some policy or action of sports leaders, but these have all been in the hope of bettering athletics of Marion. Of primary concern have been the sports public of Marion and vicinity and the individuals who do the actual playing. No athletic organization can be successful without the support of the public and there must be harmony and understanding among the participants before they can perform at their best.

ANYWAY you look at it, sports have made a big advance since April, 1943, when I started working for The Star sports department. But this progress began years before that and will continue as long as there is a place called Marion. Marion has taken on a professional baseball team, the Marion Cubs of the Ohio State league. Softball took notable steps forward last summer and is continuing this year its upward climb on the ladder to sports success. Harness racing has become a top-ranking sporting activity here through the efforts of Frank M. Foster and the Marion trotting association in staging the annual Little Grand Circuit meeting. Bowling and golf are going strong, amateur boxing is back on its feet and there are indications that tennis and swimming may rise high again in popularity among Marion sports followers.

Probably uppermost among Marion sports, in my estimation, are high school football and basketball. Hard as other sports may try, I earnestly believe they will never excell the good old scholastic "Rah Rah" brand of athletics here.

Marion has been on the upgrade for the last several years in high school athletics until Harding High now ranks as one of the state's top schools in athletics and Marion St. Mary has earned a niche in the top flight of Class B schools. The well-known competitive spirit has never been more manifest here than during football and cage games in which the Harding Presidents or St. Mary Irish are one of the contesting teams.

The men who direct Marion athletics, from Supt. E. E. Holt down to coaches in the junior high school system, are a grand bunch of fellows, willing to cooperate in every way possible and bend every effort to making things better for the boys who do the playing.

YES, Marion is on a high plane, athletically speaking, and there's no reason why she can't go even higher. There are still some things needed to be done before Marionites can justly say they have completed the task of doing everything in their power for the betterment of local athletics.

After the war, of utmost importance on the list of "must do's" here will be the construction of a gymnasium. Marion's basketball teams have been without a suitable place to play their games for years. Never has this city had a gymnasium that could come up to those in communities of comparable population.

If Marion citizens keep up the good work they have been doing, this city should represent the acme in success of sports after the war. Let's see what we can do in fulfilling the realization of this.

I only hope I will be around after the Japanazis have been whipped to report the doings along the Marion sports front.

Toledo Takes Two Games Good for Second Place

By The Associated Press

Having snatched second place occupancy from Columbus last night with a double win over Milwaukee, the surging Toledo Mudhens hope to slash the Brewers' American association lead to four games tonight when they tangle with Casey Stengel's crew in the third of a four game series.

The Hens came from behind in both of last night's encounters to rack up their sixth and seventh straight victories, 8-7 and 10-8. Columbus, which began the evening in a second place deadlock with the Hens, thumped Kansas City 8 to 1, but dropped into third spot by a half game.

Fourth place Louisville handed St. Paul a pair of setbacks, 3-2 and 10-5, while Indianapolis was pushed a little deeper into the cellar in dropping its 11th consecutive contest, 7-5, to Minneapolis.

ALL STAR WRESTLING TONITE

Heading an all-star program at the Marion Armory tonite, Martino Angelo, former title holder will meet Dutch Schultz in the two hour main event. This match should turn out to be one of the best of the season as neither man cares about the rules as long as he can win a match.

Cy Larsen, young rising star from Canton, returns to wrestle the fast moving Angelo Martinelli of New York. Both stick pretty well to the rules and a fast clever match should be the outcome. Their match will be over the one hour route with the best two out of three falls to won.

Steve Nenoff and Gorilla Pogi open the program at 8:30 with a one fall match. Call the armory after six o'clock for reservations. Adv.

War Relief Picks Up $80,000 in Four Major League Games

By The Associated Press

War relief picked up an estimated $80,000 today from the first four major league fund games but chunky Max Lanier of the St. Louis Cardinals just picked up a check for two more black marks in the loss column.

Lanier worked only six and two thirds innings last night but he was beaten by the Phillies, 4-0 and charged with another 6-5 defeat in a continuation of a May 16 "suspended" game.

The largest crowd of the St. Louis season, 24,782, turned out for the novel doubleheader but Ken Raffensberger of the Phils spoiled their fun with a neat four-hit job in the regulation game after Charley Schanz picked up where he had left off in the "suspended" tilt to notch his sixth victory.

Bill Nicholson continued his mid-season rush toward the home run and runs batted in leadership by bashing his 13th and 14th circuit clouts and driving in five runs as Chicago whipped Brooklyn twice, 12-6 and 6-2 before 16,332 who paid $15,387.99 into the war fund. Bob Chipman and Hank Wyse were the winners over Whit Wyatt and Hal Gregg.

The New York Giants' western trip started on a sour note as the Pittsburgh Pirates clubbed out a 9-2 edge for Max Butcher to hand Rube Fischer his sixth setback before 18,479 who dumped an estimated $20,000 into the fund.

Dain Clay's 10th inning single in the opener and Estel Crabtree's pinch single in the nightcap gave Cincinnati a double decker win over Boston, 4-3 and 3-2 behind Jim Konstanty and Arnold Carter. Al Javery and Nate Andrews were the Boston losers.

The Yankee stadium "jinx" struck down the St. Louis Browns who bowed before Atley Donald's talented curving, 7-2. Bob Muncrief's six-game win streak was snapped by the New Yorkers.

Bill Nicholson kept Philadelphia out of the American league cellar by scattering eight hits for win

No. 6 by a 7-3 margin over Cleveland's Vern Kennedy and Washington's Niggeling turned Detroit with three scratch to decision Rufe Gentry, 4-1 dump the Tigers into sev place.

Manager Joe Cronin's seve inning double earned Boston 4-3 twilight edge over Chic giving Joe Bowman his sixth and Orval Grove his sixth park.

SNATCHES OF SPORTS

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

NEW YORK, June 29—Ed McKeever, Notre Dame's newest football coach who is visiting here, tells how a kid from Vandergrift, Pa., wrote Frank Leahy a couple of years ago enclosing a sketch of Leahy he had drawn and asking for an autograph.... Frank sent it, expressed hope the kid would some day realize his ambition to attend Notre Dame and forgot all about it. During spring drill this year McKeever, badly in need of a passer, tried almost everyone on the squad before he discovered that freshman Joe Gasparella listed as a center, really could throw that hog-hide.... Looking into the athletic department files to find Gasparella's background, McKeever found only the sketch of Leahy and Joe's letter.

Irish Intelligence

Pat Filley, the '43 captain, likely will be back to lead the Notre Dame next fall unless the operation he underwent last week fixes up his trick knees so the armed forces will accept him. Pat recently was handed a medical discharge from the Marines....Bob Kelly, a good runner and the only capable receiver of Gasparella's passes, only will be available for five games.

Shorts and Shells

What's this story that the Phillies are wooing Bucky Harris again because Freddie Fitzsimmons is squabbling with his players? If anybody cares, there's a wrestling "war" on in Los Angeles. . . Promoter Walter Miller, who has leased the Olympic arena, says he won't deal with booking offices and that there'll be no biting, gouging, slugging or tossing-out of the ring. And if that's true, there'll probbaly be no attendance. . . Minneapolis report is that Mike Kelley, one of the founders of the American Association, won't field a team next year if the European war continues.

Galion Council Okays Water Works Program

Special to The Star

GALION, June 29—City council, has accepted construction specifications for the proposed water works improvement submitted by Paul A. Uhlmann and Association of Columbus, consulting engineers.

City Engineer Boyd Wierman explained that the new system was designed to supply 2,000,000 gallons of water daily.

The finance committee reported favorably for another $5 per month increase for city firemen. The firemen were granted a voluntary $5 a month increase on May 2, but later asked for a 10 per cen boost in salary.

Gold and scarlet are the official colors of the U. S. Marine Corps.

TOP PLACE TEAMS WIN IN O.S. LEAGUE

The three teams in the upper bracket of the Ohio State league defeated the three in the lower bracket in games last night, pushing the leaders up a little higher but not altering their relative positions while shoving the three trailers a little bit lower in the percentage and games behind columns.

First-place Newark defeated fourth-place Lima, 2 to 1. Second-place Middletown won from last-place Marion, 12 to 4, and Third-place Springfield turned back fifth-place Zanesville, 4 to 1.

Middletown is still close on the heels of the pace-setting Newark team, trailing by only half a game. Springfield is three games behind the leader. Zanesville and Marion continued a close tussle for last place, with Marion holding down the cellar position by a half-game margin.

Line scores of the two games aside from the Marion-Middletown game which is given in detail elsewhere on this page follow:

		R.	H.	E.
Lima	010 000 000 00—1	7	2
Newark	000 000 010 01—2	5	1

LICK WINS CHAMPIONSHIP

By The Associated Press

TOLEDO, O., June 29—The University of Minnesota, beaten out of the national intercollegiate golf team title by only a stroke, today held the individual championship. Louis Lick, a slender 20-year-old lad from St. Paul, took the individual crown to Minnesota yesterday for the first time with a 1 up victory over Johnny Jenswold, 21-year-old naval trainee from the University of Michigan.

M'SPADEN TURNS IN A 29 ON FIRST NINE AT CHICAGO

Lowest Score on Record in Major Competition; Has 64 for Course.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, June 29 — Golf's blue plate special—a team affair with more combinations than a slot machine—continued today at the old Edgewater playground, where club members still were ago over the 29 Jug McSpaden carved for the first nine.

A carnival atmosphere prevailed—even to the extent of using hand-y-talkies to broadcast scores back to the club house from out on the course—as mixed foursomes of pros, amateurs, women and seniors teed off on the final lap of their team tournament. The meet will become less involved tomorrow when a hand picked field begins a 72-hole grind for the Chicago victory national championship.

Meanwhile, there are pro-amateur, pro-woman and pro-senior titles to be awarded.

McSpaden, who leads the money circuit with purses of $15,100 after dominating the winter tour, traveled around the rampart Edgewater layout in 29-35—64 yesterday, equaling the course record. Par is 35-36—71, and 18 pros and two amateurs matched or bettered those figures in the limbering up exercises for the main tournament.

No one could remember—including Ed Dudley, president of the PGA—of any player ever before shooting as low as a 29 for nine holes in major competition. McSpaden melted par with his putter, bagging an eagle 3 on the 483-yard fifth, and then firing birdies on the 7th, 8th and 9th with putts ranging from 10 to 15 feet. He missed several six-footers on the back nine for a pair of bogeys which he nullified with three birdies, one by dropping a 20-footer, for a 35.

His partners also came through. Dorothy Germain posted a 77, best score among the women, while amateur Don Armstrong of Aurora, Ill., and senior Arnold Minkley of Chicago fashioned 75s. The combination of scores gave McSpadden-Germain and McSpaden-Minkley the pro-woman and pro-senior lead.

The pro-amateur lead was held by the 1943 winning team, Sam Byrd, who had a 70, and Bob Cochran of St. Louis, who led the Simon Pures with a 68—a 138 total. McSpaden and Armstrong were second with 139.

Marionites Hear Former Pupil in Convention Talk

The speech nominating Thomas E. Dewey as the Republican candidate for president held more than a political interest for Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Gegenheimer of 292 Franklin street yesterday, for Governor Dwight Griswold of Nebraska, who presented the name of the New York governor, is a former pupil of both Mr. and Mrs. Gegenheimer.

Governor Griswold was a student at Kearney academy, a private school at Kearney, Neb., when Mr. and Mrs. Gegenheimer were on the faculty in 1910, just after they were out of college and prior to their marriage. He was a student in Mrs. Gegenheimer's second year German class and Mr. Gegenheimer taught him in military tactics and mathematics.

"Dwight was a senior that year and was a good student," Mrs. Gegenheimer recalled today. "It was thrilling to hear his voice, which sounded quite natural—perhaps a little older, and we heard his entire speech," she said.

Mr. Gegenheimer, who is engaged in the insurance business, was an instructor in mathematics at Harding High school after the family came to Marion.

SPECIALTIES ATTRACT BIDS

But Most of Recent Climbers Are Stalled as Selling Develops.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, June 29—Scattered specialties attracted strong bidding in today's stock market while many of the past month's climbers encountered enough further selling to stall their progress.
Favorites touching highs for 1944 or longer with gains of fractions to more than three points included Pullman, United Corp. preferred and American Telephone. In the losing division for as much as a point or so were Willys-Overland, Chrysler, General Motors, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, N. Y. Central, Hudson Motors, Studebaker, U. S. Rubber, Anaconda, and Du Pont.

WHEAT OFFERINGS TAPER OFF TODAY

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, June 29—Offerings of wheat futures tapered off in late trading and prices advanced to new highs for the day when milling interests continued to buy to cover recent heavy flour sales made in anticipation of a lower mill subsidy after the first of the month.
Scattered buying and reports 109 cars of rye had been shipped from local warehouses in the past three days supported futures of that grain and prices turned stronger after having shown losses of nearly a cent at midsession.

COMMANDS 29TH DIVISION

By The Associated Press

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, June 29 — Maj.-Gen. Charles Hunter Gerhardt, son of a general and veteran of the last war, was revealed today as commander of the American 29th infantry division in action at Normandy.

LOVE'S FAIR HORIZON

By ADELE GARRISON

"OPEN the door, please, Katie," I said, "and let the boys in. Then go on with your preparations for your after-midnight lunch. And when you have finished, go straight up to bed. As I promised you, one of the boys will call you when the armored car comes in."

"Okay," Katie said docilely, as she opened the door. "Dot's all I vant know."

She passed the boys who trooped in, their faces showing their surprise at finding me in bed.

Confused

"I hope we didn't wake you up," Roderick said confusedly, evidently forgetting that Katie had just finished talking to me.

"Gee, Mums!" my son exclaimed, "Of course you ought to be down, but can you really sleep before Aunt Lillian and that armored car with guards gets here? And when you're going back to New York in it, too! Why, I know I can't sleep a wink before they land here!"

"Me, either," Roderick declared with more emphasis than elegance.

"But that's nonsense!" I said firmly. "It will be at least three hours before Aunt Lillian gets here. Deride now which one of you lies down and does his best to go to sleep for an hour and a half, and which sits up and watches."

"But, please, Mums," Junior protested, "don't you see that the one who goes to bed in the second watch won't be up to see the car and the guards and Aunt Lillian come in?"

Makes Mental Note

I made a mental note to tell Lillian what billing on the program the boys accorded her, and then wiped the anxiety from their faces.

"You do not have to undress or to sleep upstairs, either of you," I said. "Just take off your coats and shoes, get some blankets and lie down on the couch in my study. The one who is on watch will hear the car before it gets here, and will first waken the other, then go up and waken Katie, and finally waken me if I am not already awake. I have set my alarm for three hours from now. By the time the one on watch gets back down stairs, the other will have on his coat and shoes, and you both can go to the door. Be sure, however, not to undo the night chain until you see Aunt Lillian."

I could not help a feeble grin at the relief and delight in their eyes.

"Gee, Mums!" Junior exclaimed, his eyes shining, "That's swell! You always think of everything. And I'll bet I can sleep for the hour and a half, can't you, Rod? Come on downstairs! We'll toss to see who sleeps first."

"Okay!" Roderick answered, but they did not leave until they had come over and kissed me. Then they scurried away, closing the door softly after them. I pulled the cord of my reading lamp, and settled myself for the slumber which, unless in time of mental torment, I am able to summon at any time, in any place.

Wakened

The soft pealing of my alarm clock wakened me. I seized it, shut it off, and then rose and put on my bathrobe and slippers. There was not a sound from anywhere as I cautiously opened my door, and I went to the head of the stairs and called softly: "Boys!"

Junior was at the foot of the stairs almost immediately.

"Yes, Mums?" he queried.

"I'm going to take a quick shower, and dress, so don't bother to tell me when the car comes. I'll probably be downstairs before it pulls in."

I have schooled myself to be "a quick change," a theatrical parlance, and it was but a few minutes before I was fully dressed and downstairs.

"Mums!" Junior said hesitatingly.

"Yes?" I answered encouragingly.

"Don't you think it would be a good idea if I wakened Rod and Katie now? Katie'll be awful disappointed if she isn't on hand when the car drives up."

"You awful good boy, Junior, but you kin safe your worry for somebody else," Katie said from the doorway. "Me, I set my leetle clock for ven I tink time for car. Und now vot I do?"

Nods

"Just a second," I told her, and nodded to Junior.

"You may waken Roderick now," I told him, and as he dashed toward my study, I turned back to Katie, who was as fresh and eager-eyed as if she had slept ten hours instead of three.

"Put a kettle of fresh water on first," I said. "We may be able to have freshly boiling water for coffee after all. Then if there is anything you can cook and let stand on the back of the range, you could start your breakfast."

"Sausages won't hurt," Katie said, "und I start fry potatoes right away."

"That will be fine," I told her, and she scurried into the kitchen. Junior and Roderick came into the hall a minute later, and Roderick had barely uttered a sleepy "Good morning, Aunt Madge!" when his drowsiness vanished, and he and Junior threw up their hands in a listening attitude.

"Do you hear anything?" they demanded of each other; then answered their own question.

"Yes, a car. An' it's turning in. It's here!"

YOUR HEALTH

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

New Miracle Drug

By the time this article gets into print the new germ killer, penicillin, will be as easily available to everyone who needs it as any other drug. The armed forces have had almost unlimited supplies of it for some time. A few hospitals where the scientific attainments of the staff men were known to be high and satisfactory have been given some samples of it.

At present if a doctor has a patient on whom sulfa drugs have been tried and failed he can usually obtain enough penicillin for trial in that instance. Now that the supply is sufficient this distribution may be made more liberal.

The public doesn't always stop to think of the obstacles in the way of a new drug like this being available. One step, and the step which has just been completed in the case of penicillin, is to select and license manufacturers who are competent to turn out a pure product. Two years ago United States pharmaceutical houses began to be granted licenses for this purpose.

Manufacture of Penicillin

At present there are 13 firms producing penicillin under contract and very shortly it is expected this number will be 22. Even with the great facilities of modern pharmaceutical manufacturing firms this is no more than enough because the usefulness and application of penicillin is very wide indeed. There is hardly any fever or form of infection in which it is not a possibility.

I have seen and studied a few clinical cases in which it was tried and have talked to a good many doctors about it. What impresses one is that even the most conservative of these say that the wildest dreams we held of its usefulness are realized. Not one but several have repeated in so many words that it is better than the sulfa drugs.

It has been told so often that it is hardly necessary to repeat the story of its discovery. Penicillin is a mold, or fungus, such as grows on damp bread. There is hardly one of my readers who has not seen penicillin. It was for years the pest of bacteriologists because it contaminated their culture media. Finally, in 1929, Professor Alexander Flemming made one of those flashes of observation such as have so often started science on a new adventure.

Discovery of Penicillin

It is a moderate calculation that 20,000 laboratory workers and bacteriologists had seen culture media on which staphylococcic germs were growing and were contaminated by penicillin mold. But they just looked, they didn't observe anything. Professor Flemming suddenly noticed that where the mold began to grow the pus germs died out. And from that all the research followed.

It would be easier to list the germs in which penicillin is ineffective in killing them off than the ones in which it does work. Most of the germs which penicillin fails to affect are those of tropical diseases, or so rare as to be negligible in routine practice.

We had realized a great dream with the sulfa drugs and supposed that no improvement could be made on them, but as was intimated above, penicillin works on cases where the sulfa drugs have failed.

At this season it is worth noting that it is even effective in tetanus, or lockjaw, the real cause of the mortality of Fourth of July wound contamination. One hardly supposes there will be much celebration of the Fourth this year. There are enough Americans shooting off fireworks in other parts of the world, so that our own plot of earth might be spared. But that sort of dream is probably too much to expect.

Should some enthusiasts decide to have an old fashioned celebration it would be well for the local doctor to see that some penicillin is available with which to treat them when the inevitable injury occurs. He should have some tetanus antidotes too, but that is only for prevention. Up to the present we have had no methods of treating tetanus in case the preventive did not work. Now we have penicillin.
